A Delivery of the Public Library was opened December 3, at Roslindale. A new Catalogue of the East Boston Branch Library will be published in about two months, to be followed later by a Catalogue of the Branch Library at South Boston.

A list has recently been published of serial publications now taken in the principal libraries of Boston and Cambridge. This List omits many periodicals taken by this Library. An interleaved copy, with the omissions supplied, can be found at the Bates Hall Desk.

The Public Library has recently received one thousand dollars from Dr. Samuel A. Green, late Acting Librarian. The amount has been funded, and the income will be applied to the purchase of books on American history.

The Library would be glad to receive copies of the Bates Hall Index and Supplement, and of Bulletin No. 46, of which its supply is nearly exhausted.

This Bulletin contains lists of works on Heraldry, prepared by Mr. Knapp, and on Afghanistan, by Mr. Swift; a continuation of the account of books on the History of Mental Philosophy, and the conclusion of the Check List for American Local History, by Mr. Perkins.

It is proposed to try in the Lower Hall the experiment of allowing single numbers of popular periodicals to be taken out for home use.

Bulletins.—VII. Quarterly issues, each, 20 cents.

The Bulletins must be applied for as issued, during January, April, July, and October of each year, as subscriptions cannot be received.

The Branch Catalogues and other publications will be furnished as far as practicable on similar terms, to be made known on application.

Central Periodical Reading Room.

A list of periodicals currently received (more than 800 in number, of which about one-half are kept in the Reading Room) is for sale at 5 cents.

CATALOGUES.

Bulletins.

New Books as soon as received are entered on the Bulletin Boards of each Library. The Bulletin Board for Bates Hall shows books added to the Central Library, and before titles appear on the Board the new books are displayed (with the shelf-number attached) in a glass case at the desk. The lists in the Lower Hall and at the Branches show only the books added to those departments. The Dorchester list is posted also at the Lower Mills Delivery, and the Jamaica Plain list at the Roslindale Delivery. The Bulletins are for sale (excepting those out of print) at five cents each. Books with numbers below 2110 are in the Lower Hall; with 2110 and above, in the Bates Hall. Those with Bri., Chn., Dor., E. B., J. P., Rox., S. B., or S. E. prefixed to the number are respectively in the Brighton, Charlestown, Dorchester, East Boston, Jamaica Plain, Roxbury, South Boston, or South End Branches.

Bates Hall of the Central Library.

I. The INDEX of 1861. (Includes the Bowditch Library.) Out of print.

II. The SUPPLEMENT of 1866. (Includes the Parker Library.) For sale in sheets at $2.00.

III. The CATALOGUE of the PRINCE LIBRARY. For sale at $1.00.

IV. PUBLIC CARD CATALOGUE. This contains, with some exceptions, the titles of all the books now in the Central Library.

V. The OFFICIAL CARD CATALOGUE, which can be consulted, in cases of need, upon application, contains the titles of all books added to the Bates Hall since the publication of the Supplement in 1866, and includes some titles of books received between 1866 and 1871, which are not in the Public Card Catalogue.

Cretaine, Paul Lacroix, A. Jubinal, G. Brunet, A. Terrien, R. Lamporecchi, Fr. Lepelle de Bois-Gallais, Paulin Paris, and Prosper Mérimée. Libri was condemned in his absence and deposed from his office of professor in the College of France. He died at Florence in 1859. Prominent among his defenders was Paul Lacroix, who published in 1873 Libri's incomplete catalogue of his manuscripts and again asserted his belief in Libri's innocence.

- The "Golden legend" or lives of the saints, was the 43d issue of the Caxton press, the first edition being published in 1484. Caxton thoroughly expurgated the original to suit English taste, and, not daring to print the Bible avowedly, introduced secretly into the Legend a great part of the Scriptures. Stevens includes this book among the list of Bibles. This fac-simile is from a copy in the Free library of Manchester, which is incomplete, beginning folio 128, and ending with folio 416.

Part VII.

IV. (concluded). Alexandrian Schools of Philosophy.

Indefinite and varied views have been taken of the schools of philosophy which centred at Alexandria; and their origin from a mixture of Greek, Jewish, Oriental, and Egyptian elements of thought, would naturally occasion much obscurity and uncertainty in defining. Ueberweg (1, 222, etc.) uses the general term "Jewish-Alexandrian" for them, with a sub-classification. Crenzer, in his "Deutsche Schriften" [2904.1.9, pp. 407, 447] considers Philo (about B. C. 20 to A. D. 40 or 50) the first of the great teachers of Alexandria, as an eclectic in respect of the Greek philosophies, but not a Platonist so much as a Jewish mystic and allegorizer. Cousin, in his preface to Proclus [6164.1.1, p. iii], neglects Philo and the Greco-Jewish school, as if not philosophic at all, and reckons the Alexandrian school from Ammonius Saccas (A. D. 160-240) onward; and Barthélemy St. Hilaire, "École d'Alexandrie" [2952.2], defines in like manner. Bouterwek, in a dissertation in the Commentationes Soc. Reg. Gotting., for 1823 [3304.1.5, p. 227], uses the term Neo-Platonists, and classifies them into: 1. Judaic; 2. Christian, including the Gnostics; and 3. Ammonio-Plotinists. This Dehaut, in the introduction to his Life of A. Saccas [5601.5] disapproves, and also disapproves Matter's arrangement into: 1. Eclectics; 2. Neo-Platonists; 3. Ammonio-Plotinists; and 4. Syncretists. Dehaut would arrange instead, as follows: 1. Eclectics, and 2. Syncretists; and would subdivide these last into: a. The Jewish school of Aristobolus and Philo; b. The Christian school of Athenagoras, Pantaenus, and Clement of Alexandria; c. Gnostics, under Basilides, etc.; d. The Ammonio-Plotinists, under Ammonius Saccas, Plotinus, and Proclus; while Matter, in his "Essai historique sur l'École d'Alexandrie" [2192.6], applies "schools" rather as a plural, and as including all the teachings given at Alexandria, in all literature, sciences, and arts, from the foundation of the city to the Mohammedan conquest. Other classifications can be found; but a triple division under: 1. Philo; 2. Clement of Alexandria; and 3. Ammonius Saccas, will perhaps serve most students well enough. For discussions of the Alexandrian schools generally, besides the general works, see Barthélemy Saint-Hilaire's Report, in the Mémoires of the French Acad. des Inscriptions for 1844, issued separately with preliminary dissertation on the Alexandrians and Mysticism, and appended extracts from Plotinus [2952.2]; Matter's Essai [2192.6]; Simon's Histoire [5603.20]; and Saisset's review of this in "Rev. d. d. Mondes" of Sept. 1, 1844 [3335.1.62, p. 783]; and Vacherot's Histoire [6095.16]. Brief views of the doctrines of the chief Alexandrian teachers, with some account of their works, are in Fabricius, Bibliotheca Græca [2961.1, vols. 4, 5]; where see for Philo, iv. 721; Plotinus, v. 676; Porphyry, v. 725; and Iamblichus, v. 758. Compare also a popular sketch in the Christian Examiner for January, 1866 [3160.2, v. 1, N. S.]; and in vol. 2 of Thomas Taylor's translations from Proclus [4271.5.2] is Taylor's account of the Neo-Platonist philosophy, entitled "Restoration of the Platonic Theology."

Philo and Judaism.—For the oriental influence on Judaism and the Alexandrian philosophies, see in Ritter's "Gesch. d. Philosophie" [6104.2.4, p. 349, etc.], a chapter on the subject; and it is discussed in its place in other general histories. See also Jost, Judenthum [4489.24], vol. 1, p. 99 and p. 344; and chap. 13 in vol. 3 of Graetz's Gesch. d. Juden [2297.10.3]. The traces of a Greek philosophical element in the Septuagint, if any, are commonly thought very slight; though Vacherot, "École d'Alexandrie" [6095.16, p. 140], thinks them numerous and distinct. Aristobulus, an Aristotelian, thought to have been the first Jew who studied the Greek philosophy, sought to prove that the Hebrew Scriptures were really the basis of Aristotle's philosophy; and for authorities on him, see article in McClintock and Strong's Biblical Cyclopædia [B. H. desk], and Ueberweg's History [3462.50, 1, p. 225]. The library has the edition of Philo's works by Turnebus [6080.6]; by Mangey and Pfeiffer, Erlangen, 1785-92 [6050.24]; a Leipzig edition, 1865-72 [5489.10]; and an English translation by Yonge [845.7; 4979.18; 6050.23]. For expositions of his doctrines, which perhaps embody a theosophy, rather than either a philosophy or a theology proper, and of his status as a teacher, see (besides chapters in general histories) Barthélemy St. Hilaire, "École d'Alexandrie" [2952.2], who considers him important, as more or less of a Platonist, and as not belonging to the school of Alexandria, but as having inspired it. Simon, in his "Histoire de l'École d'Alexandrie" [5603.20.1, p. 119, etc.], is substantially to the same effect; and Vacherot, in chapter 5 of volume 1 of his "École d'Alexandrie," p. 142 [6095.16], calls his teaching "the first serious and systematic attempt at a fusion of Greek and Oriental ideas;" and "an Oriental Platonism;" and he goes on to argue this at some length. Jowett has a valuable dissertation on "St. Paul and Philo," in his work on Thessalonians, Galatians, and Romans [6010.15, 1, p. 363], in which he considers the Alexandrian philosophy, so far as Philo was a leader of it, not so much a system of thought as "a method of applying Plato and the Greek philosophy to the Jewish Scriptures;" and he calls Philo "unmistakably a Jew." He gives Grûner's "Philo und die jûdisch-alexandrinische Theologie," being the same as "Kritische Geschichte des Urchristenthums" [6044.4], as, on the whole, the best authority on Philo's teachings. Consult also Grossmann, Quæstiones Philonæe [B.190.31]; Bauer's Philo, Strauss, and Renan [3487.13]; Jones, "Ecclesiastical Researches," etc. [3424.6], in which the author seeks at great length to prove, in the words of his second title, "Philo and Josephus, historians and apologists of Christ, of his followers, and of the Gospel;" and a paper by Creuzer, "Zur Kritik der Schriften des Juden Philo," reprinted in his Deutsche Schriften, Abth. 2, Bd. 3 [2904.1.9].

Clement of Alexandria; Christianity.—The Christian school at Alexandria in which Athenagoras (perhaps), Pantaenus, Clement, and Origen were the most eminent teachers, was so wholly theological that it need not be discussed here. For a list of several authorities about it, see end of article "Alexandrian Schools," in McClintock and Strong's Biblical Cyclopædia. See also the chapters on the Gnosis in Vacherot [6095.16], vol. 1, and references in other histories of philosophy. A paper in the Catholic World [7472.1, vols. 1 and 3], reprinted from the Dublin Review, shows very well how exclusively religious was this school.

Neo-Pythagoreans, etc.—A sort of preparation for the later Neo-Platonism of Alexandria may be traced in one or two somewhat disconnected groups or series of thinkers who may be classed as Neo-Pythagoreans, and Eclectic or Pythagoreo-Platonists. The general histories, and those of the Alexandrian schools, have more or less accounts of these teachers; as for instance pages 453 to 558 of Zeller's Philosophie der Griechen [6094.3, vol. 3]; less directly, vol. 1 of Matter's Essai [2192.6], etc.; and see a passage in Meiners' "Geschichte der Wissenschaften in Griechenland und Rom," [6098.16.1, Book 3, p. 188], and one in Lutterbeck's "Neutestamentliche Lehrbegriffe" [6022.5, p. 370]. On Apollonius of Tyana, perhaps the most eminent of the so-called Neo-Pythagoreans, and who is thought to have been pushed as a possible heathen rival to Christ, see the Life by Philostratus, — it is "a philosophico-religious romance," Ueberweg says, — in Greek and Latin, edited by Olearius [4190.5]; an edition with the Latin of Bonfinius [4169.3]; and the edition in Didot's classics, in Greek and Latin [3002.13]; B.181.8]; the German, by Jacobs [4979a.24]; an edition in French by Chassang, with notes, etc., and some bibliography in the introduction [2394.21]; a curious anonymous versified account in Italian, Venice, 1555 [G.4072.7]; Baur's "Apollonius von Tyane und Christus" [6037.18], which discusses, from the basis of the moderate "Tübingen school," the relations of Pythagoreanism and Christianity; a work by Prialux, on the Indian travels of Apollonius [3049.57], which seems to think that Philostratus wrote in good faith, and that whatever of imposture there is in the work is chargeable to Apollonius himself, or to his companion Damis; and a good short account by J. H. Newman [4517.19.2, p. 305], who discusses the question of rivalry with Christ.

Ammonius Saccas.—The school founded by this teacher, and in which his follower, Plotinus, became still more eminent than he, is that commonly known as the Neo-Platonist, and was the most widely known and influential as an Alexandrian school of philosophy. Ammonius founded his school about A. D. 192; his follower, Plotinus, began to teach at Rome about A. D. 244. Plutarchus of Athens, and others, introduced the system at Athens in the end of the 4th century, and it was taught there through most of the 5th century. The schools of Athens were finally closed by Justinian, A. D. 529. The monograph of Dehaut, "Essai historique sur la vie et la doctrine d'Ammonius Saccas" [5601.5], is a good discussion of him and his views, as well as of Plotinus, and there is a preliminary account of the other Alexandrian philosophical schools. He gives many references, and relies much on Matter's Essai [2192.6]. The followers of Ammonius have been classed by Degerando, "Histoire comparée des systèmes de philosophie" [3608.3.3, chap. 21, p. 332, etc.], in three schools, — viz., 1. Rome, a philosophical eclecticism, under Plotinus and Porphyry; 2. Alexandria, under Jamblichus and Hierocles, a mysticism; and 3. Athens, under Plutarch and Proclus, uniting a doctrine of revelation with the Greek wisdom. Further discussions of him are in the various general histories of philosophy, and in those of the Alexandrian schools generally, as Vacherot [6095.16.1, p. 339]; B. St. Hilaire [2952.2]; Matter [2192.6], etc. On the Ammonian and Plotinian Neo-Platonism generally, besides the histories of the Alexandrian schools already cited, viz., Matter [2192.6], B. St. Hilaire [2952.2], Simon [5603.20], and Vacherot [6095.16], see the Latin dissertation of Olearius, "De philosophia eclectica," at end of his version of Stanley's "History of Philosophy" [6901.2], which begins with Potamon rather than with Ammonius Saccas; a chapter at p. 404 of Tschirner's "Fall des Heidenthums" [6075.21]; Bouterwek's paper, "Philosophorum Alexandrinorum ac Neo-Platoniorum recensio accurata," in the "Commentationes de the Göttingen Gesellschaft d. Wiss.," for 1823 [3304.1.5, p. 227]. See also a sketchy account in Ferrier's Remains [5606.16.1, p. 471]; the slight but lively discussion by Kingsley in his "Alexandria and her Schools" [4968.5]; and compare his novel of Hypatia [420.27, etc.]; and a review of Kingsley by Martineau in his Essays [5563.8.2]; a paper by Jeremie [in 395.14]; one, translated from Constant's "Du Polytheisme Romain," in the Bibliotheca Sacra for Nov., 1845 [5310.2.2, p. 649], and the same in the original [6076.11]; one on the relation of Neo-Platonism to Christianity, in the New York Review [3206.8.9, p. 336]. Mysticism in connection with Neo-Platonism is treated in a preliminary dissertation by B. St. Hilaire [2952.2]. And, lastly, Brown, in his "Great Dionysiac Myth" [3484.66.1, p. 67], explains that Neo-Platonism is worthless, from obscurity.

For the writings of Plotinus, see the Greek with the Latin version of Marsilius Ficinus and his commentaries [4180.4]; and the same, in Didot's collection [3002.3]; a French version by Bouillet [4204.9], with a life, and containing also Porphyry's "Principles of the Theory of Intelligibles," which is a sort of comment on Plotinus; and Saisset's review of Bouillet, in Revue d. d. Mondes for Sept. 1, 1844 [3335.1, 1844, vol. 3, p. 783]; the treatise on suicide, and some other selections, in English, by Thomas Taylor [5008.6]. B. St.-Hilaire has translated some selections in his work [2952.2 and, same, 6095.17] together with the life by Porphyry. For the relations of Plotinus to the Gnostics, see Neander's dissertation on the subject [4149.9], and also Creuzer's [2904.1.9, p. 361]. The analysis of the Enneads in Ueberweg [3462.50.1, p. 244] is a competent summary.

For Porphyry's writings, see the Life of Plotinus as referred to in the preceding paragraph; and the volume of translations by Thomas Taylor [4205.2]; there is a short analysis of Wolff's edition of the "De philosophia ex oraculis," etc., in the Bibliotheca Sacra [5310.2.14, p. 427], and see two papers on his "Sentences," and on the present aspect of the questions he raises, in the "Journal of Speculative Philosophy" [7521.1.3, p. 46, 372]. For the commentaries of Hierocles on the Pythagorean "Golden Verses," see the edition (Greek and Latin) by Curterius [B.169.11], a translation by Norris [2979.29], and the French of Dacler [2964.5, vol. 2]. The book on Providence and Fate, together with the Fragments, and the work of Gyradius, "Pythagorae symbolorum interpretatio," is in the same volume with that of Curterius [B.169.11]. For Iamblichus, see the life in the different editions of Eusebius, "Vita Sophistarum" [4203.4; 3002.13, etc.]. See Taylor's translation of his work on the Mysteries [3487.2]; his life of Pythagoras [6098.5]; and his Adhortatio ad Philosophiam, Greek and Latin [6108.3]. A paper by Meiners in the Göttingen Commentationes for 1782 [3294.3.4, p. 50] argues that the book on mysteries is spurious, though the weight of authority seems in favor of its genuineness. Cousin, in the preface to his well-known issue of some inedited works of Proclus [6104.1], claims a very high position for Proclus as a philosophical thinker, saying (pp. xxiv, xxv) that his teachings include not merely "all that is valuable in Iamblichus, Porphyry, and Plotinus, in better form of expression," but that he is "the interpreter of all the Greek philosophy." Few go so far as this. Taylor's translations [4271.5] include the "Elements of Theology," and the commentaries on the first book of Euclid, together with the life by Marinus; and Taylor's estimate of Proclus is almost as high as Cousin's. See also the Institutio Theologica, in Greek and Latin, in Didot's edition [3002.2]; and in Creuzer's edition [3008.9]; the Carmina, in Greek and English [Ph. vol. 38]; and other editions [B.162.7 and B.169a.3]. There is a life, with some inedited works, by Burigny, in the Mémoires of the French Acad. d. Inscriptions for 1761 [3212.1.31].

The mingled and often mystical and obscure teachings of the different Alexandrian schools were longest continued at Athens, where Damascius was the last scholar, his official work ending at the closing of the philosophical schools by Justinian. A. D. 529; and at this point may naturally end the history of that philosophy which was taught without a Christian influence.

Heraldry.

The following list includes Burke's publications, and similar works which relate alike to genealogy and heraldry. It will be supplemented by an article on genealogy in the Bulletin for April. Much additional matter may be found in English county histories, visitations, etc., in American local histories and biographies, and in the publications of various antiquarian societies. English works on heraldry find many readers at the Library. No mention is here made of the illustrations which are to be found in these books. The abbreviations H. and M. stand for Heraldry and Madrid.

Trees and Forests. (Republication.)

The Bulletin for July, 1878, contained a list of books on trees and forests, including some works selected by the Hon. George P. Marsh, United States' minister to Italy. The edition was soon exhausted, and as there have been many urgent requests for this list, it is here reprinted, with additions. Mr. Marsh's list was furnished to the Library by the Rev. S. W. Powell. Many of the books included in it have been recently received from Europe, and their shelf-numbers are here added.

Parliamentary Papers of Great Britain.

In the Sessional Papers issued by the British government are annual reports on forests, etc., relating especially to Great Britain. These can be consulted at this Library.

Massachusetts Board of Agriculture.

The annual reports of the Secretary of this Board [6445.4] contain many valuable articles on this subject. The importance of tree-culture is treated of in the reports for 1853, 54, 56, 57, 59, 61, 65, 71, 72, 75, 76; — Desirability of extending the growth of forests, 1853, 54, 56, 57, 59, 61, 62, 65, 69, 71, 72, 75; — Destruction of forests increasing the liability to drought, 1854, 56, 59, 61, 69, 75; — Temperature of soil in forests, 1854, 56, 59, 65; — Extent of the destruction of forests, 1854, 65, 72, 75; — Profit of growing forests, 1856, 57, 65, 75; — Influence of forests, 1854, 56, 59, 61, 69, 71, 72, 75; — Number of valuable species of forest trees in this country, 1854, 57, 66, 69, 72; — Methods and times of planting and transplanting forest trees 1856, 60, 62, 65, 66, 75, 76; — Rotation in forest trees, 1860, 69 (for another article on this subject, see H. D. Thoreau's "Excursions," 4506.14); — Time of felling forest trees, 1856; — Characteristics of different trees, 1866; — Change of the foliage in autumn, 1875; — Forest schools in Europe, 1875; — Characteristics of the foliage of northern compared with that of southern trees, 1865; — Action of frost on trees, 1874; — Effect of girdling, 1873, 74; — Value of farms increased by trees, 1875; — Purification of the atmosphere, 1875; — Nearness to dwelling-houses, 1875; — Notes on trees and tree-planting, by C. S. Sargent, 1875, 77.

Whitney, Oct., Nov., 1876. — Penn monthly: American and European forestry, June, July, Sept., 1876. — Revue des deux mondes: Various important articles to be found in the Index, 7371.3. — Oesterreichische Monatsschrift für Forstwesen. — North American review: The preservation of forests, Jan., 1879.

A list of Spanish works on this subject can be found in B. A. Ramirez, Diccionario de bibliografía agronómica [D.181.33].

Afghanistan.

For accounts of this country down to the present century, histories of India and Persia must be consulted. Its political significance in relation to India and England dates from the visit of Elphinstone to Peshawur, in 1809. Material for its history since that date may be found in works on India, in the biographies of Indian residents, and in the correspondence of the governor-generals. Many recent books of travel in Central Asia treat of the geographical position of Afghanistan, in reference to the Russian-English problem. There are important papers in the publications of learned societies, such as the K. Akad. der Wissens., Berlin, 1818-19, 3222.2.5; the Royal geog. soc. of London, 1835, 6265.2.5; and the Acad. imp. des sciences, St. Petersburg, 1845, 58, 3270.1.5; 3280.1.3. A list of recent review articles can be found at the Bates Hall Desk. For a bibliography of this country see the Nouveau dictionnaire de géographie universelle, C.R. 22.1.8.

Exchange of Pamphlets.

There are among the duplicates in the Library many thousand pamphlets. The following method of exchange with other libraries has proved satisfactory:—in return for pamphlets published in any particular state or section of the country the Library will send an equal number issued in Massachusetts or New England.

Memorials of Boston.

The Public Library should contain every memorial, whether book, pamphlet, map, broadside, print, photograph, or the like, which is procurable, and which in any way illustrates the history or topography of the City of Boston. Books printed in Boston at an early date are very desirable acquisitions; and it is hoped that friends of the Library will assist in making the collection complete.

Important Works in this Bulletin.

This list includes some of the especially important works added to the Library during the past three months, fuller titles and shelf-numbers of which are to be found in the body of this Bulletin.

A Catalogue of the first part of the Barton collection, including the various editions and translations of Shakespeare, both in the Barton and general library, has been printed.

A Catalogue of Books relating to Spain and Portugal, bequeathed by George Ticknor to the Boston Public Library, and of the similar works in the general collection, will be published before the issue of another Bulletin.

A new Catalogue of the East Boston Branch has just been printed, and is for sale. The South Boston Branch Catalogue will be completed before the first of May.

The Bulletin for July will contain a list of early American books recently purchased at the sale of the Brinley Library.

A new edition of the Hand-book for readers is in course of preparation.

Bulletins. — VII. Quarterly issues, each, 20 cents.

The Bulletins must be applied for as issued, during January, April, July, and October of each year, as subscriptions cannot be received.

The Branch Catalogues and other publications will be furnished as far as practicable on similar terms, to be made known on application.

Central Periodical Reading Room.

A list of periodicals currently received (more than 800 in number, of which about one-half are kept in the Reading Room) is for sale at 5 cents.

CATALOGUES.

Bulletins.

New Books as soon as received are entered on the Bulletin Boards of each Library. The Bulletin Board for Bates Hall shows books added to the Central Library, and before titles appear on the Board the new books are displayed (with the shelf-number attached) in a glass case at the desk. The lists in the Lower Hall and at the Branches show only the books added to those departments. The Dorchester list is posted also at the Lower Mills Delivery, and the Jamaica Plain list at the Roslindale Delivery. The Bulletins are for sale (excepting those out of print) at five cents each. Books with numbers below 2110 are in the Lower Hall; with 2110 and above, in the Bates Hall. Those with Bri., Cha., Dor., E. B., J. P., Rox., S. B., or S. E. prefixed to the number are respectively in the Brighton, Charlestown, Dorchester, East Boston, Jamaica Plain, Roxbury, South Boston, or South End Branches.

Bates Hall of the Central Library.

I. The INDEX of 1861. (Includes the Bowditch Library.) Out of print.

II. The SUPPLEMENT of 1866. (Includes the Parker Library.) For sale in sheets at $2.00.

III. The CATALOGUE OF THE PRINCE LIBRARY. For sale at $1.00.

IV. PUBLIC CARD CATALOGUE. This contains, with some exceptions, the titles of all the books now in the Central Library.

V. The OFFICIAL CARD CATALOGUE, which can be consulted, in cases of need, upon application, contains the titles of all books added to the Bates Hall since the publication of the Supplement in 1866, and includes some titles of books received between 1866 and 1871, which are not in the Public Card Catalogue.

*For further particulars see "Handbook for Readers," distributed gratis.

Thayer Bequest.

This list contains the titles of the books bequeathed by Miss Eliza Mary Thayer, of Roxbury, to the Public Library in 1877. The chief value of the collection lies in its large number of portraits, many of which have been taken from other sources and inserted in these volumes. A catalogue of these portraits is in course of preparation. Though as a whole of a miscellaneous character, the majority of the books and portraits illustrate English history, particularly the reign of the Stuarts. 244 volumes, chiefly duplicates and other editions of books, already in the Library, not historical or biographical, and some not of unusual rarity, have not been included in this list. 110 volumes of modern history, etc., being duplicates, have also been omitted. The whole bequest of 890 volumes has been catalogued, and is now to be found entered in the Bates Hall card catalogue. The books are placed in the same room with the Barton library, and, by the terms of the bequest, cannot be taken from the Library.

Richardson, 1806.] 21 v. 2506 inserted portraits. 115 plates. F°. G.10.2
- This set of volumes, of which the title-page is made up by the illustrator, is a unique combination of two distinct works: the first Granger's Biographical history of England. 5th ed. London, 1824. 3 v., F°; the other, Noble's Biographical history of England from the revolution to the end of the reign of George I. London, 1806. 3 v. 8°. Granger's history has been expanded from three to fourteen vols., by interleaving, and by the insertion of many portraits. Noble's history, originally in octavo, has been neatly mounted on leaves of folio size, interleaved, and increased to seven volumes (15-21). Among these inserted illustrations are Richardson's Copies of rare portraits, over 300 in number; Caulfield's reprints; also Houbraken's and Vertoe's valuable large engravings and portraits, cut from Rapin-Thoyras's History of England.

Genealogy.

The books most often convenient for genealogical researches, after those devoted to any special name required, are, in this library, Savage's Genealogical Dictionary [2331.12; G.301.10] for the first three generations of New England families; and the New England Historic, Genealogical Register [2335.1], for much information about particular names, and miscellaneous facts. Of this periodical, which began in 1847, the first ten volumes are indexed in vol. 10, and the next five in vol. 15, but for the rest the indexes and contents of each volume must be searched.

Principles and Rules. — Various discussions of methods of genealogical researches and of recording their results may be found in articles in periodicals and in prefaces and other subsidiary parts of books. There is a little separate tract, by W. C. Fowler, entitled "Conditions of success in genealogical investigation" [No. 1 in 4332.8], which describes Mr. N. Chauncey as a model of such conditions; and a tract by D. E. Durrie on "The Utility of the Study of Genealogy." There are in particular various articles in the N. E. Hist. Gen. Register on details of systems of recording genealogies.

Printed blanks for recording genealogies have been published by Shattuck, 1841, and a second edition enlarged, 1856; by Hubbard, 1870; by Hawks, 1875; and one with a scheme of pierced pages in order to see onward to a subsequent generation, 1868, by Whitmore; of this a second edition appeared in 1871 [have] and another in 1875. This plan was devised by J. Hammond Trumbull, of Hartford. A short statement of a "System for denoting relationships," by W. H. Whitmore, is in the N. E. H. G. Register for Oct., 1874 [2335.1.28], and some copies were reprinted separately [No. 3 in 4335.76].

Individual genealogies. — The following is a tolerably full list of such separate American genealogies as have been published, together with a few foreign ones. This Library possesses such as have a shelf-mark or the word "have" entered against them; and the others will be procured as occasion may serve.

Portraits.

The Public Library contains, scattered through many volumes, a large collection of portraits. Of these, as a whole, no index has yet been made, but a catalogue of important portraits in books recently added has been begun, and may be consulted upon application. The Spanish catalogue, to appear shortly, will contain a list of engravings of persons identified with the history of Spain. Many miscellaneous portraits belonging to the Barton library are already indexed. Of the valuable collection given by Miss Thayer, a list is about half finished. A catalogue of the portraits in the Tosti collection is included in the Tosti card catalogue at the north end of Bates Hall. It is intended ultimately to consolidate the catalogue of portraits in the general library with those of the special collections.

Bulletins and Reports Wanted.

The Public Library has but few copies of the first thirty numbers of the Bulletin, of the Yearly Reports for 1852-70, and 1876, and of the early numbers of the Superintendent's Monthly Report. Contributions of any of these will thankfully be received.

Memorials of Boston.

The Public Library should contain every memorial, whether book, pamphlet, map, broadside, print, photograph, or the like, which is procurable, and which in any way illustrates the history or topography of the City of Boston. Books printed in Boston at an early date are very desirable acquisitions; and it is hoped that friends of the Library will assist in making the collection complete.

Exchange of Pamphlets.

There are among the duplicates in the Library many thousand pamphlets. The following method of exchange with other libraries has proved satisfactory:—in return for pamphlets published in any particular state or section of the country the Library will send an equal number issued in Massachusetts or New England.

Important Works in this Bulletin.

This list includes some of the especially important works added to the Library during the past three months, fuller titles and shelf-numbers of which are to be found in the body of this Bulletin.

Ticknor Catalogue.

A Catalogue of the Spanish library and of the Portuguese books bequeathed by George Ticknor to the Boston Public Library, together with the collection of Spanish and Portuguese literature in the general Library, has just been published.

This work contains bibliographical and literary notes. For sale at five dollars.

The Annual Report of the Library is now ready for distribution.

A new edition of the Hand-book for Readers has just been published.

Large additions have recently been made to the Charlestown Branch Library by purchases from the income of the Harris fund. The list of these additions is not contained in this Bulletin, but is reserved for publication in the new edition of the Catalogue of this Branch Library, which is now in preparation.

New Catalogues of the Branch Libraries at East Boston and South Boston have recently been published.

CATALOGUES.

Bulletins.

New Books as soon as received are entered on the Bulletin Boards of each Library. The Bulletin Board for Bates Hall shows books added to the Central Library, and before titles appear on the Board the new books are displayed (with the shelf-number attached) in a glass case at the desk. The lists in the Lower Hall and at the Branches show only the books added to those departments. The Dorchester list is posted also at the Lower Mills Delivery, and the Jamaica Plain list at the Roslindale Delivery. The Bulletins are for sale (excepting those out of print) at five cents each. Books with numbers below 2110 are in the Lower Hall; with 2110 and above, in the Bates Hall. Those with Brl., Chn., Dor., E. B., J. P., Rox., S. B., or S. E. prefixed to the number are respectively in the Brighton, Charlestown, Dorchester, East Boston, Jamaica Plain, Roxbury, South Boston, or South End Branch.

Bates Hall of the Central Library.

- The text of the French edition is translated from that of the Italian. The plates seem to have been retouched and some of the portraits have been supplied with backgrounds, etc., before the French edition was struck off. The arrangement of the plates is substantially identical in the corresponding volumes. The few differences have been noted on the margins in the Italian edition. This latter has been mutilated, and has lost two plates from vol. 2, and five from vol. 3.
- [The French edition is on paper 21 x 14½ inches; the Italian on paper 17½ x 13½ inches.

- Señor D. Pascual de Gayangos states that the first edition of this rare book was printed at Baeza, by Montoya, in 1575. It was so thoroughly suppressed, that, although eleven editions of it had been published. Feyjó begged a friend to procure a copy of it in Latin, Italian or French, because, as he said, he could hardly hope to find one in Spanish. (Tiecknor's Hist. of Span. lit., II, 218. Note.) It was first forbidden, "hasta que se repurgare," in Quiruga's prohibitory Index of 1583. The obnoxious passages were indicated in the Exurgatory index of the following year; but even after the "correction," it appears to have been rigidly suppressed, so that the editions of the sixteenth century are met with even more seldom than copies of the Cancionero General. — W. I. KNAPP.
- Other editions of the Exámen de ingenios in the Boston Public Library are mentioned in the Tiecknor Catalogue.

- The Order decided to print this work in 1655; it, however, remained unprinted until Tiburcio de Aguirre y Ayanz edited this first edition in 1763. In the records of the Order it is stated that Torres y Tapia began the work and that it was continued by Juan de Robles Rocha. The editor states the reasons for his belief that it is the work of Torres y Tapia alone, and that a continuation by Robles Rocha may have been written and lost.

Part VIII.

V. Patristic and Scholastic Philosophies.

The history of Christian philosophy may be arranged into, 1. Patristic or early Christian; 2. Scholastic or Mediæval; 3. Modern.

1. Transition from heathen to Christian philosophy. — Cocker's Christianity and Greek philosophy [7606.2] discusses the Greek philosophers in their historical order as an introductory chapter in human experience to prepare for Christianity. There is a reference to the influence of Aristotle and Plato upon the development of Christianity, in the work of Gass upon Gennadius and Pletho [3486.72, p. 11]; a similar one in a paper of Creuzer's on the early Christian philosophic doctrines of the soul [2904.1, vol. 3, part 2, p. 449]; and see Baur's Das Christliche und Platonismus [B.162.11]. Pélagaud's Celse et les premières luttes entre la philosophie antique et le Christianisme naissant [5602.71] sets forth the former as a conservative element opposing the innovations of the latter, with a theological, or, rather, theosophical system, as well as a philosophical one. The 5th book of Döllinger's Christenthum und Heidenthum [6073.1, p. 222] refers to the transition from the heathen to the Christian era in discussing the relations of Greek philosophy to religion just before the Christian era and in the beginning of it; and his 8th book, at p. 567, deals in like manner with the Roman philosophy. Ritter, in the Abhandlungen of the Göttingen Gesellschaft der Wissenschaften [3304.2.3, p. 243], examines the doctrine of emanation as an element in this transition period; and see a vigorous article entitled "The ancient philosophy in its relations to Christ" in the Christian Review for January, 1853 [3468.1.18, p. 1]. This transition period is also handled in its proper place in the general histories, and often at the beginning of histories of Christian philosophy, such as Ritter's, etc.

2. Christian philosophy generally. — Since theological and philosophical modes and subjects of thought have always been closely related, and were especially so in early periods, the whole range of religious and church history, particularly the history of opinions and of dogma, contains indispensable materials for the history of Christian philosophy. Upon the general history of the subject see of course the appropriate portions in the general histories and encyclopædias. Ritter's "Geschichte der christlichen Philosophie," 8 vols., 1841-53 [6102.2], is a full account, beginning with a description of the change from the ancient to the Christian philosophy, and coming down to Wolf, the French encyclopædists, Hume and the Scotch school, but omitting Kant and his successors. This omission is more or less repaired in his "Christliche Philosophie nach ihrem Begriffe," etc., 2 vols., 1858 [7604.13], which deals more with exposition and with less range of history, discussing mainly scholasticism, mediæval, Arab, and Jewish philosophy, and modern philosophy from Bacon to Kant, and from Kant to Feuerbach. F. Baur, in Zeller's Theologisches Jahrbuch [6078.3.5], gives his view of the general subject, controverting some of Ritter's views, and was afterwards answered by Ritter in the Theologische Studien und Kritiken. Scholten's Geschichte der Religion und Philosophie, in German by Redepenning from the original Dutch [5600a.24], is a condensed outline history, with many references, tracing their relations from the beginning until 1868; it is from a religious and Christian stand-point.

Stanley ends his history of philosophy [1st ed., 1655, 3601.1] at Christ, avowedly on the ground that Christ brought all truth into the world, and that the philosophical research after truth was thus rendered superfluous. A similar doctrine can be traced in a few writers of the early Christian period.

3. Patristic or early Christian philosophy. — For the writings themselves of the fathers of the church, see their names individually in the Bates Hall Catalogues; and also under the title "Fathers of the Church." Some of the principal collections of their works are as follows: Migne's Patrologiæ cursus completus [Latin series, 3440.1; B.111.1; B.126.1; Indexes to same, 3470.36; Greek series, 5461.1; B.126.1]; Clarke's Ante-Nicene Christian Library [5497.8], Grabe's Spicilegium [6029.3], of writers of the first three centuries only; Gersdorf's Bibliotheca selecta [6039.4], of Latin fathers only; the Maxima bibliotheca veterum patrum of Margarinus de la Bigne [B.110.1].

Most of what is said by way of comment upon the philosophy of the fathers of the church must be obtained from works upon their theology or history. Reference may be had (among many other sources, however) to Stoekel's and Huber's works on their philosophy [ordered]; to chapter 5 in Vacherot's École d'Alexandrie [6095.16.1, p. 223]; to Baur's second article above referred to in the Theologisches Jahrbuch [6078.3.5, p. 72]; to a discussion of Origen and the beginnings of Christian philosophy by Canon Westcott in the Contemporary Review of May, 1879, et seq. [7321.3]; and to an examination by Rev.

E. A. Washburne of the relations to philosophy of early as compared with later Christianity in the Bibliotheca Sacra [5310.2.8, p. 34]. On St. Augustine, see a report to the French Académie des Inscriptions by Barthélemy St. Hilaire [3272.2, vol. 12] on five competing dissertations on the philosophy of the saint, criticising each in detail and with many suggestions on the subject; and Hewitt's Problems of the age with studies in St. Augustine [7458.1].

4. Period between Patristic and Scholastic philosophies.—Here may be mentioned Boethius, born 470, died 526, of whose famous Consolations of Philosophy there are various editions in the Library [Migne's, 3450.5 and B.162.12; Chaucer's version, 2592.7 and 4607.13; King Alfred's Anglo-Saxon version, 2927.6; another English version, 2927.5; etc.]. Boethius also translated a number of the works of Aristotle and other ancient authors, and these translations were of much value and influence during the Scholastic period, those from Aristotle especially. To this same intermediate period belong Mamertus (middle of 5th century), whose works are in Migne's Cursus [3440.24 and B.112.4], and his De statu animæ [B.110.2]; Cassiodorus (468–562), who like Mamertus maintained the immateriality of the soul [works in Migne, 3450.10; B.112.17; B.110.2]; Isidorus Hispalensis (died 636), for whose De natura rerum, and other writings, see Migne [3450.16; B.122.5]; the Venerable Bede (673 to 735) [works in Migne, 3450.21; B.122.10; Giles's translation, 3498.7; and other editions in the B. H. Catalogues]; and Alcuin (736 to 804), in Migne [3450.25; B.113.4, and other editions in the B. H. catalogues]. These last three writers were little more than compilers of encyclopædias or text-books; Alcuin from Bede and Isidorus, Bede from Isidorus, Isidorus from Cassiodorus, Boethius and the fathers.

5. Scholastic philosophy.—This, if we count from Boethius to Sully and Occam, was the philosophy of Christendom for more than a thousand years. Hampden, in his Scholastic philosophy [7504.2, p. 9], says, "The scholastic method is nothing more than . . . the philosophy of Aristotle, as it was moulded by the state of civilization and learning, and by the existing relations between the civil and ecclesiastical powers, in the course of the middle ages." The general histories of philosophy, as well as those of civilization and of the middle ages, deal with the scholastic period, each in its own manner. Of separate works on the scholastic philosophy may be named Rousselot's Étude sur la philosophie dans le moyen-âge [6094.5], which places the beginning of scholasticism not at Boethius but at Johannes Scotus Erigena in the 9th century, and ends with Gerson and the mystics in the 14th century; Hauréau, Philosophie scolastique [6094.4], which is, as the writer specifies, not a complete history, but a "memoir upon the classic period" of the scholastic philosophy, being about the same covered by Rousselot. Hampden's Bampton Lectures on Scholastic philosophy, considered in its relations to Christian theology [7504.2], is an able and authoritative exposition of their connection, or, as might almost be said (and as Erigena affirmed), their identity; and see a review of it in the Bibliotheca Sacra [5310.2.11, p. 415]. Maurice's Mediæval Philosophy, from the 5th to the 14th century [5606.15], being the treatise on the subject from the Encyclopædia Metropolitana, is a condensed view of systems, with more or less biography (among others) of Boethius, Scotus Erigena, Anselm, Abelard, Albertus Magnus, Aquinas, Bonaventura, Duns Scotus, Roger Bacon, and Lully. A brief outline forms chap. 2 of Lacrolx's Sciences and Arts in the Middle Ages [2220a.52, and the French original, 2230a.53 and 55]. The first volume of Cousin's Fragmentes philosophiques [3605.3] is entitled Philosophie scolastique, but is in fact devoted mainly to Abelard.

Renaissance.

This list contains the works in this Library that treat of the Renaissance in France and Italy. Symonds' exhaustive work [2722.5] can be used as a guide to the names of those who, either as artists, writers, or patrons of art, shared in the movement in Italy. In Masson's French dictionary, the promoters of the Renaissance in France are given in chronological order [2689.63, p. xlii]. For an intimate knowledge of the characteristics of the Renaissance, biographical works should be consulted in addition to histories of the Italian cities. Of the latter, Florence being the literary and artistic capital, its histories are specially valuable. Trollope's [4726.2], the latest in English, covers the period from 1107 to the fall of the republic in 1531. Napier's [2726.52], also in English, is a comprehensive history, and reputed accurate. Reumont's Life of L. de' Medici contains a detailed history of the city under the Medici domination, with a synopsis of the early history. The contemporary historians are, with one exception, represented in this library only in Italian. Machiavelli's well-known history has been translated. Bohn's edition is in L. H. [828.7]. Capponi's [4724.50], the latest Italian history, furnishes, in the light of new documents, a comprehensive history from the earliest times to the ascendancy of Alessandro de' Medici in 1531. For a sketch of the contemporary histories see a chapter in Symonds' "Age of the despots," p. 182 [2722.51.1].

Histories and biographies of the Medici of Florence, Malatesta family of Rimini, Orsini and Colonna, the Dukes of Urbino, the Visconti of Milan, and other noble Italian families who, by patronage, contributed to the advancement of learning, necessarily throw much light on the history of the Renaissance. Litta's Famiglie celebri d'Italia [2740.1] contains, beside genealogies, many portraits and much historical information. For a study of the writers of the Renaissance, the great resources of the Italian department of this library are accessible to the Italian scholar. In English the works of Petrarch, Boccaccio, Poggio, Ariosto, Tasso, are fairly represented in the Bates Hall collection. Poliziano, Ficino, Arétino, and others, are in the collection in Italian only.

The following collections, in Italian, include the principal sources of the history of Italy. The contents are given in the Bates Hall catalogues: Archivio storico italiano. 1842–79. Firenze, 1842–79. 77 v. 8°. [5245.2]; Classici italiani. [Collezione.] Milano, 1803–14. 250 v. 8°. [4801–4809]; Collezione di opere inedite o rare dei primi tre secoli della lingua. Bologna, 1863–78. 8°. [4762a.1]; J. G. Grævius. Thesaurus antiquitatum et historiarum Italiae. Lugduni Batavorum, 1704–25. 45 v. in 31. F°. [4710]; L. A. Muratori. Annali d'Italia. Monaco, 1761–64. 12 v. 4°. [2710.4]; L. A. Muratori. Antiquitates Italicae mediæ ævi. Arretii, 1773–80. 17 v. 4°. [2720.7]; L. A. Muratori. Rerum Italicarum scriptores. A. D. 500–1500. Mediolani, 1723–61. 28 v. F°. [2710.1]; Regia deputazione di storia patria, Milan. Miscellanea. Torino, 1863–71. 11 v. 8°. [4712.1]; G. Romagnoli, ed., Scelta di curiosità letterarie inedite o rare dal secolo xiii al xvii. Bologna, 1861–78. [4762.1.]

In addition, see under heads Raccolta, Collezione, Novelle, in Bates Hall catalogues. Works of travel give, in a popular form, the present condition of the art productions of the Renaissance in Italy. Hare's "Cities of Italy" [2769.64.65] and Horner's "Walks in Florence" [2766.50] are recent works containing valuable notes and criticisms. Many of the works of the old masters, as well as the engravings, of that time can be studied in the Tosti collection of engravings in this Library. For the pottery of the Renaissance, consult Bulletin No. 41, p. 210; for music, Bulletin No. 36, p. 34.

Valuable suggestions have been received from Professor Charles E. Norton, of Harvard College, in regard to the compilation of this List.

Part I. Art.

Lists on literature, political history, and a selected list of the more important biographies, which will include biographies of artists, will be printed in succeeding Bulletins.

Ticknor Catalogue.

A Catalogue of the Spanish library and of the Portuguese books bequeathed by George Ticknor to the Boston Public Library, together with the collection of Spanish and Portuguese literature in the general Library, has just been published.

This work contains bibliographical and literary notes. For sale at five dollars.

The Library will be glad to receive copies of Bulletins No. 2, 20, 28, and 46, of which the supply is exhausted.

The cards containing the titles of books in the Lower Hall Library are now being removed from the Public Card Catalogue in Bates Hall. They are to be arranged as an independent card catalogue, and will be placed in the Lower Hall Delivery Room, in charge of an assistant, who alone will have access to them, and who will furnish such information as may not be found in the printed catalogues.

This Bulletin contains a limited number of entries under subjects, and numerous explanatory notes.

Number of Volumes and Hours.

All departments are open every secular day, except the five legal holidays,—February 22, Fast Day, July 4, Thanksgiving and Christmas,—and such other days as the Trustees may direct.

CATALOGUES.

Bulletins.

New Books as soon as received are entered on the Bulletin Boards of each Library. The Bulletin Board for Bates Hall shows books added to the Central Library, and before titles appear on the Board the new books are displayed (with the shelf-number attached) in a glass case at the desk. The lists in the Lower Hall and at the Branches show only the books added to those departments. The Dorchester list is posted also at the Lower Mills Delivery, and the Jamaica Plain list at the Roslindale Delivery. The Bulletins are for sale (excepting those out of print) at five cents each. Books with numbers below 2110 are in the Lower Hall; with 2110 and above, in the Bates Hall. Those with Brl., Chn., Dor., E. B., J. P., Rox., S. B., or S. E. prefixed to the number are respectively in the Brighton, Charlestown, Dorchester, East Boston, Jamaica Plain, Roxbury, South Boston, or South End Branch.

Bates Hall of the Central Library.

I. The INDEX of 1861. (Includes the Bowditch Library.) Out of print.

II. The SUPPLEMENT of 1866. (Includes the Parker Library.) For sale in sheets at $2.00.

III. The CATALOGUE OF THE PRINCE LIBRARY. For sale at $1.00.

IV. The CATALOGUE OF THE TICKNOR COLLECTION of Spanish and Portuguese books. For sale at $5.

V. PUBLIC CARD CATALOGUE. This contains, with some exceptions, the titles of all the books in the Bates Hall.

VI. The OFFICIAL CARD CATALOGUE, which can be consulted, in cases of need, upon application, contains the titles of all books added to the Bates Hall since the publication of the Supplement in 1866, and includes some titles of books received between 1866 and 1871, which are not in the Public Card Catalogue.

Engravings.

There is a separate catalogue of the Tosti Engravings in drawers properly labelled at the north end of the Public Card Catalogue case in Bates Hall.

Lower Hall of the Central Library.

I. FICTION and JUVENILES, with notes for readers. 6th edition, April, 1877. Embraces the "Index to Historical Fiction." 20 cents.

V. POETRY, DRAMA, COLLECTIONS, AND MISCELLANIES. 1st edition, August, 1870. 20 cents.

VI. CARD CATALOGUE. This contains the titles of all the books in the Lower Hall. An assistant, who alone will have access to this catalogue, will furnish such information as may not be found in the printed catalogues.

VII. MANUSCRIPT CATALOGUES. Names of authors and titles of books added to the Lower Hall since the printing of the above lists will be found in folio catalogues on application at the Receiving Desk.

Branches.

Catalogues are for sale:—Brighton, 25 cents, for the main Catalogue (including first Supplement), and 5 cents for each of the two subsequent Supplements; Charlestown, 25 cents each, parts 1 and 2; Dorchester, 10 cents; and 10 cents for the Supplemental list; East Boston, 25 cents; Jamaica Plain, 15 cents; Roxbury, 30 cents; South Boston, 25 cents; and South End (New Books), 3 cents.

Bates Hall books can be applied for at the several Branches and Deliveries, and, if they are in, they will be sent to the Branch or Delivery the same or following day.

The Bulletins since the issues of the Branch Catalogues constitute supplements to those several lists.

Prices of Catalogues to Non-Residents

are fixed to cover cost of manufacture and postage, as follows:—

Bates Hall.—I. Prince Catalogue, $1.75. (Other Bates Hall Catalogues not to be had.)

Lower Hall.—II. History, Biography, and Travel. $1.50.

III. Arts, Sciences, and Professions. 75 cents.

IV. Fiction and Juveniles. 75 cents.

V. Poetry, Drama, and Miscellanies. $1.00.

VI. Foreign Books. 75 cents.

Bulletins.—VII. Quarterly issues, each, 20 cents.

The Bulletins must be applied for as issued, during January, April, July, and October of each year, as subscriptions cannot be received.

The Branch Catalogues and other publications will be furnished as far as practicable on similar terms, to be made known on application.

Central Periodical Reading Room.

A list of periodicals currently received (more than 800 in number, of which about one-half are kept in the Reading Room) is for sale at 5 cents.

For further particulars see "Handbook for Readers," distributed gratis.

- Various manuscripts. A volume from Prescott's Library. (vi, 494) pp. F° G.33.16
- Contents. — 1. Notes relating to the Spanish Arabs, taken for a review on Conde, finished May, 1839. Pp. vi, 244. — 2. Memoranda from J. Blanca's Commentarii and Modo de proceder en Cortes, Maria's Teoría de Cortes, Robertson's Charles V, Hallam's Middle ages. Pp. 245-322. — 3. Hints, reflections, etc. Constitution of Castile and Aragon. Pp. 323-482. — 4. Review of Conde's Hist. de la dominacion de los árabes en España. Pp. 483-94.
- The first manuscript is that described in Ticknor's Life of Prescott, p. 92, and was the basis of No. 4, which is only a part evidently of the review afterwards used in the eighth chapter of Ferdinand and Isabella. No. 2 seems to be the notes for No. 3, which appears to be the preliminary sketch of a part of his Introduction to the same history.
- This manuscript was copied for Mr. Prescott in ink, upon both sides of large foolscap paper. In two places, at pp. 36 and 490, a sheet appears to have been lost. A few notes in both ink and pencil have been added by Mr. Prescott himself.

- This investigation was made on account of statements which had been made that the remains of Columbus had been discovered in the Cathedral of San Domingo, and that they had not been removed to Havana in November, 1795. The falsity of these statements is here proved. The subject is discussed by M. Rodriguez Ferrer in the Revista contemporánea, Marzo 30, 1873; by F. W. Cusens in the Athenæum, Nov. 24, 1877, Jan. 5, 1878; and by J. C. Brevoort in the Magazine of American history, March, 1878.

Mysteries, Miracle Plays, Moralities, and Religious Dramas.

The earliest religious plays, The Christus Patiens of Gregorius Nazianzenus, and the dramas of Hrotswitha, the nun of Gandersheim, may be regarded as attempts to supplant the works of the classic writers, by those of a distinctly religious character. The middle age mysteries, miracle plays, Spanish Autos sacramentales, Italian Rappresentazioni, and German Geistliche Spiele were all the natural outcome of the dramatic ceremonies which began to attend the elaborate observances of the liturgy in the Catholic church. At first commended by the clergy, they were afterwards condemned as they began to lose their religious simplicity. A number of moralities, which still preserved much of the spirit of the mysteries, have been included in this list. Farces, interludes, and entremeses, do not strictly belong here. At the rise of the modern drama, these spectacles gradually disappeared, though in England miracle plays were acted till the time of James I. A genuine passion-play is still performed at Ober-Ammergau every ten years. The baroness Tauphocus, in Quits [430.52], describes this ceremony. Minutoli [D.130a.14] gives the text of a Mystery heard at Valencia in 1853. A realistic account of the morality of St. George, said to be performed still by mummers, in England, is to be found in Hardy's Return of the native [89.37]. Victor Hugo, in the Hunchback of Notre Dame [1421.10], furnishes a vivid study of the performance of a miracle play in the middle ages. Many curious details not to be found elsewhere are given in Du Cange's Glossarium mediæ et infimæ Latinitatis [*4110.3] under theatrical words peculiar to the age; for instance, Festum asinorum, Pastor, etc. A further investigation of this subject could be made by looking up the references in the foot-notes of such books as Warton's History of English poetry, vol. 2 [4573.26], and Sepet's Prophètes du Christ [4674-52]. The dramatic histories of the various countries contain considerable but not original information; the most important of such histories are referred to below. For a general study of the topic, Klein's Geschichte des Drama's [4874.4] is perhaps the fullest. Only a part of the most important articles in reviews and publications of societies are given. A few of interest omitted here will be found in the Jahrbuch für romanische und englische Literatur [*6686.1], and the Journal des savans [*3313.2]. For a more complete list of this branch of the Spanish drama the Fleknor catalogue must be consulted. As will be seen the French have been, and are still, most active in bringing to light their manuscripts and rare books on the old mysteries. Little has been done in Germany; while in England little, if any, remains to be done. Aucona's large collection of Sacre rappresentazioni contains the most important literature of the religious drama in Italy.

Renaissance.

Part II. — Political History.

Reference has been made in the preliminary note to the Renaissance list, in the Bulletin for July, to collections which contain the principal sources of Italian history. The works cited in this section have been selected as being the more important works relating to the history of Italy during the Renaissance. The histories of France are briefly referred to, in a note under Martin, in the list. The contemporary histories have been included, whether published separately or in collections. The list of biographies of Statesmen is reserved for a general list of biographies of the Renaissance. Some of the works of historical fiction, based on the history of Italy at this period, are given in the Boston Public Library Class List of Fiction, p. 73.

the genuineness of some of the documents cited by him has been called in question. Hazlitt's "History of the Venetian republic" [272.12] is the most comprehensive history in English, comprising the years 409 to 1457. Smedley's Sketches [309.4; 810.49] contain a popular account to the year 1798. The correspondence of the ambassadors is of the highest importance as giving the views of men trained to public affairs regarding the courts to which they were accredited, and furnishes an outlook on the general condition of Italy. Scheffer-Boichorst, in his "Florentiner Studien" [Ordered], asserts that the Chronicle of Compagni is a spurious work; and maintains the charge in "Die Chronik des Dino Compagni," Lpz., 1875. Malaspina's "Istoria" [2760.1] is also discredited. For an account of the controversy, to which this charge gave rise, consult the "Archivio storico italiano," 1874, p. 165; 1875, p. 453; and articles in "Historische Zeitschrift," by Hegel, v. 35, p. 32; and Bernhardt, 1877, p. 77 [5228.50]. The following works were published in regard to the dispute: Fanfani, "Dino Compagni vendicato." Milano, 1870; Hegel, "Die Chronik des Dino Compagni." Lpz., 1875. Hegel takes issue with Scheffer-Boichorst. Burckhardt says that in Germany, Boichorst's view is generally accepted, while in Italy the genuineness of the Chronicle is maintained. The Italian view is set forth in Capponi's "Storia della repubblica di Firenze," v. 2, pp. 569-574. Symonds speaks in high praise of the Chronicle as a contribution to the history of the time.

See note under Compagni.
- MANETTI, G. Chronicon Pistoriense a condita urbe usque ad annum 1446. [Muratori. Rerum Ital. script., v. 19.] *2720.1.19
- MARTENE, E., and DURAND, U. Veterum scriptorum et monumentorum historiarum, dogmaticorum, moralium amplissima collectio. Parisiis, 1724, 33. 9 v. F°. *4150.1
For contents see Bates Hall catalogue.
- MARTIN, B. L. H. Histoire de France depuis les temps les plus reculés jusqu'en 1789. 4e éd. P., 1860-62. 17 v. 8°. 4614.1
Vols. 6, 7, 8 contain 4re partie, "France de la Renaissance." The "Catalogue de l'histoire de France," of the Bibliothèque Impériale (6191.1), will furnish a sufficient bibliography of French history of the time of the Renaissance. Franklin, "Les sources de l'histoire de France" [6163.45], gives a bibliography of collections.
- MASI, E. I Burlamaacchi e di alcuni documenti intorno a Renata d'Este, duchessa di Ferrara. Studi sulla riforma in Italia nel secolo XVI. Bologna, 1876. 16°. 5529.10
- MATARAZZO, F., called Maturanzio. Cronaca della città di Perugia dal 1492 al 1503. Con annotazioni del medesimo di F. Bonaini e F. Polidori. Firenze, 1851. [Archiv. stor. ital., v. 16, pt. 2.] 8°. *5245.2.16
"His chronicle is a masterpiece of naive, unstudied narrative. Few documents are so important for the student of the 16th century in Italy. Whether it be really the work of Matarazzo or Maturanzio, the distinguished humanist is more than doubtful."—SYMONDS. See also Bonaini, in this list, for other histories of Perugia.
- MAY, Sir T. E. Democracy in Europe: a history. L., 1877. 2 v. 8°. 2303.51
In vol. 1, pp. 273-332, "The Italian republics."

In vol. 1, pp. 284-346, "The Italian republics."
- MICHELET, J. Histoire de France au 16e siècle. Renaissance. P., 1855. 8°. 4662.9
Michelet commences his account with a narrative of the invasion of Italy by the French under Charles VIII, and traces the consequent effects upon Italy and France of the French invasions of Italy. Apart from his characteristic treatment (which, however open to criticism, is yet that of a writer of original genius), it contains little that will not be found in Symonds and Martin.
- MILMAN, H. H. History of Latin Christianity; including that of the popes to the pontificate of Nicholas V. 2d ed. L., 1857. 6 v. 8°. 3514.12

Genealogy.

Third and last paper.

Lists of names. — Here may be cited such works as Hotten's "Original lists of Emigrants, etc., to America, 1600 to 1700" [2332.51], and Rupp's list of 30,000 Pennsylvania names [2379.66].

English local history. — The English county histories and other local histories, like the same class of American works, contain a great deal of genealogical and heraldic matter; and in this department the Library has a very good collection. With this belong the English heralds.

Visitations; namely. — Cornwall, 1620 [2410a.59]; Lancashire and part of Cheshire, 1533 [2425.21]; Lancaster, 1567 [2425.13] and 1615 [2425.14]; Leicester, 1619 [2410a.52]; London, 1568 [2410a.51]; Nottinghamshire, 1569 and 1614 [2410a.54]; Oxfordshire, 1566 [2410a.55]; Rutland, 1618-19 [2410a.53]; Wales, 1586-1613 [2430.2]; Warwickshire, 1610 [2410a.62]; Westmoreland, 1615 [4586.20.2]; Yorkshire, 1584-5 and 1612 [2500a.51].

Genealogical bibliography. — The two encyclopædic authorities for American genealogy, Savage's Dictionary [2331.12; G.301.10] and the Genealogical Register [2335.1] have been mentioned. To them may be added Tanguay's Dictionnaire généalogique des familles canadiennes depuis la fondation de la colonie [4431.50], of which only vol. 1 has thus far appeared, covering the years 1608-1700. The two indispensable bibliographies are Whitmore's and Durrie's. Whitmore's excellent list of titles of American works on genealogy was first issued in 1862 as "Handbook of American genealogy" [4503.1], then in 1868 as "The American genealogist" [2152.25], and a third time, by this latter title, in 1875 [2337.13]. Durrie's "Index to American genealogies" [1st edition, 1868, 4432.7; 2d ed., 1878, 4432.16] is a list of very brief references without dates of publication, and without full titles and comments as given by Whitmore; but, as it refers also to single names as found in state and local histories, periodicals, etc., it covers more ground than Whitmore, and includes an alphabet of more than ten thousand names. For instance: Whitmore gives ten references under "Brown," while Durrie gives sixty-seven. There is a list of the books indexed by him in the beginning of the volume.

English genealogical research will be much aided by the use of Sims's "Manual for the Genealogist, Topographer Antiquary and Legal Professor" [2484.6]. This contains descriptions of a great number of public records, parochial and other registers, local and family histories, heraldic collections, etc., printed and in ms. See also two papers by Fowler in the Genealogical Register [2335.1], vol. 22, p. 23, and vol. 23, p. 77, entitled "Hints to genealogists derived from English local nomenclature." For English guides of a class similar to Whitmore's and Durrie's, see Coleman's "General index to printed pedigrees in county and local histories, and privately printed genealogies," 1866 [4535.17], which gives references under about 6,000 family names; Marshall's "Catalogue of pedigrees hitherto unindexed" [4536.11]; Bridger's "Index to printed pedigrees," 1867 [2435.21], in two parts; first, a list of books and family names in them; and second, an alphabet of the names (some 8,000) with references to the books; Marshall's "Index to the pedigrees in the printed heralds' visitations," 1866 [2435.20]; Moule's "Bibliotheca heraldica Magnae Britanniae," 1822 [2153.9], which contains the titles (among others) of many genealogical works, and also in a supplement, a list of foreign genealogical books; Sims's "Index to names in Heralds' Visitations," 1849 [2434.3]. Hotten's "Topography and family history of England and Wales" (20,000 books) [2153.15].

Collections of genealogies.—Besides Savage's Dictionary and the Genealogical Register, already mentioned, may be named some other periodicals, viz.: the New York Genealogical and Biographical Record [2337.55]; the Worcester Magazine and historical journal, 4 vols. in 2, 1826 [5224.4]; Pennsylvania Magazine of History and Biography [5335.1]; Maine Genealogist and Biographer [4435.52]. American Quarterly Register [5175.6], especially for dates about ministers and college graduates; and for facts about college graduates, see also, of course, the various triennial catalogues. Holgate's American Genealogy, 1851 [2330.3], is a work somewhat of the same class as Savage's, but of small compass, being confined to a few families of Dutch and French descent; Farmer's Genealogical Register, 1829 [2335.2] for early settlers of New England, particularly dignitaries; Goodwin's Genealogical Notes, 1856 [2332.8], an accurately executed work, chiefly on Connecticut families; Morse's Genealogical Register of the Ancient Puritans, 2 vols. [Vols. 2 and 3 of 2333.23], being a collection of reprints of articles from the N. A. Hist. Gen. Register; the Giles Memorial, 1864 [4332.3] and Vinton Memorial, 1858 [2332.3], both by J. A. Vinton, and each containing records of a number of families, some of which are entered in the record of individual genealogies printed in the Bulletin, No. 49; Gale's Gale and other families, 1866 [4339.28]; Peirce's contributions [2337.61], Stranahan's Stranahan and other families, 1868 [4435.12]; Bergen's Bergen and other Long Island families, 1876 [2337.64]; Dod's East Haven register [2336.25]; Poor's Hist. and Geneal. Researches in the Merrimack Valley, 1857-8 [2350.8]; Historical Collections of the Essex Institute [2335.10].

English collections are (among others) Nichols's "Topographer and Genealogist" [2486.1] and his "Collectanea Topographica et Genealogica" [2485.1]; Bell's "Tracts on Genealogy," etc., vol. 2 [of 4586.20], for the family of Scott of Stoke, and the Visitation of Westmoreland in 1615, by Sir St. George (Norroy); Berry's Hampshire pedigrees [2430.53], and same for Hertfordshire [2430.52] and Sussex [2430.51]; and Foster's similar collections for Yorkshire [4520.9] and Lancashire [6530.2]. Here may also be named George's "Genealogical tables illustrative of modern history" [2223.52].

Collateral authorities.—Very much genealogical information is to be found in works relating to heraldry, titles and dignities; publications of historical societies; historical magazines; family histories, biographies, annals of the Gotha Almanac class, collections of epitaphs, lists of names, records of births, baptisms, marriages, deaths and burials; church registers, records of wills, records of lands, early laws, etc. Remoter sources are, history generally (except local histories as already shown), and the study of names, sometimes called patronymatology. A few samples of some such works are:—

Heraldry, Peerages, etc.—For a considerable number of works in this department, see list at p. 29 of the Bulletin No. 48, for January, 1879, which includes the principal works in the Library. A few additional titles are as follows: Burke, Baronetage of the British Empire [2432.5]; Buffin, Dictionnaire des familles qui ont fait modifier leurs noms, 1803-1867 [6641.10]; Catton's English peerage (viz., 109 coats of arms taken out of a copy of the book) [6536.16]; The heraldic manuscript of Sir David Lindsay, Scottish Lyon King at arms [2430.55]; The Rows Rol (annals and arms of Beauchamps, earls of Warwick and others) [G.183.5]; and a number of miscellaneous pedigrees collected in a volume [4335.55].

For peerages and similar books, see the list of works on heraldry in the Bulletin No. 48, and add: Beaton's Chronological register of the British Parliament, 1708 to 1807 [2484.4]; and Beaton's Political index to the histories of Great Britain and Ireland; or, a complete register of hereditary honors, persons in office, etc. [2484.5]. Haydn's Book of dignities [2484.3] is a revision of Beaton's Political index. Of foreign works may be named: Gamurrini, Istoria genealogica delle famiglie nobile Toscane et Umbre [2741.1]; Litta, Famiglie celebri d'Italia [2740.1]; Nicholas, Annals, etc., of county families of Wales [2493.6; 2493.51]; Galindez de Carvajal, Adiciones genealogicas á Los claros varones de Castilla [D.120b.1.18], etc.

With these may be mentioned works on the history of chivalry, and on separate orders of knighthood, as the Collar of Savoy, Knights of Malta, Templars, Teutonic Knights, etc., for which see the Bates Hall Catalogues.

Epitaphs.—Alden's American epitaphs [2334.11]; Bridgman's Copp's Hill epitaphs [2334.4; 4335.1; 229.4]; his King's Chapel memorials [2334.10]; and his Inscriptions from the Northampton grave-yards [2334.13]; Green's Epitaphs from the old burying-ground in Groton, Mass. [2351.69]; Gilman's Inscriptions in the cemetery of the Unitarian church at Charleston, S. C. [4379.58]; Harris's Epitaphs from the old burying-ground, Watertown, Mass. [4333.12]; Whitmore's Grave-yards of Boston [2334.56]; Inscriptions from the old burial-grounds in Worcester, Mass. [4434.54]; Worthington and Lewis's Dorchester epitaphs [6341.11].

Similar foreign collections are: Cansick's Epitaphs in church, etc., of St. Pancras [4338.23]; Brown's Epitaphs in Greyfriars churchyard, Edinburgh [4572.30]; Epitaphs, etc., chiefly in Scotland [4557.16]; Gibson's Inscriptions on the tombstones of the Covenanters [2479.10]; Lawrence-Archer's Monumental inscriptions of the British West Indies [2310.59]. Collections of epitaphs for amusement or curiosity are numerous, but have no record value.

Annals and almanacs.—Almanach de Gotha [6219a.1]; Gothaisches Genealogisches Taschenbuch der freiherrlichen Häuser [2839.50]; same, gräflichen Häuser [2839.51]; same, Hofkalender [A.119a.2]; Weimar Geneal., etc. Almanach [A.119.1].

Registers and records.—Many transcripts of American registers of baptisms, marriages, etc., are in the N. E. Genealogical Register [2335.1]. A few have been published elsewhere; such as, Register of baptisms in the church of French refugees at Mannikintown, Va., 1721-54 [have]; Registres des baptêmes et sépultures at Fort Du Quesne, Pa., 1753-1756 [2311.29]. Similar English publications are: Westminster Abbey registers [2410a.60]; those of St. Peter's, Cornhill, and Canterbury Cathedral [2410a.70]; and those of Allhallows, London Wall [2430.56]. See also a considerable number of English names of the 13th and 14th centuries in the calendar of inquisitiones post mortem, etc., published by the Rolls Commission as Calendarium Genealogicum [7025.50].

Somewhat similar to these are the lists of "next of kin," "heirs at law," etc., issued at various times, and which like the literature about "Estates in England," contain some items of useful information.

The Chinese in America.

For statistics of immigration, consult the United States government reports on commerce, etc. [*7653.1], also the quarterly reports of the Bureau of Statistics [3656.9]; for diplomatic relations of the United States with China, the copies of the Diplomatic correspondence [*4420a.30]; the text of the Burlingame treaty in the volume on "Treaties and conventions," 41st Congress, 3d sess., Senate doc., no. 36 [*C.161.3.2]. The bound volumes of the "Congressional record," in the Patent Room, may be examined for debates in Congress on Chinese immigration. Consult also the "Nation," and "Harper's Weekly," of March and April, 1879. In the Pamphlet Department there is a copy of the new constitution of California, the provisions of which are aimed specially to restrict Chinese immigration. The subject of the education of the Chinese has been considered in the annual reports of the Commissioner of education of the United States [7595.1]. The manners, customs, and morals of the Chinese are best portrayed in works on China. Among late works may be mentioned: Eden's "China" [3018.19]; Gray's "China" [3014.11]; Thomson's "Illustrations of China and its people" [*5010.10]; also by the same, "The land and the people of China" [1695.12]. Prof. Williams, of Yale College, read a paper on Chinese immigration, before the American Social Science Association, at Saratoga, September 10th, which will probably be printed in the publications of the Association [*5572.67].

Recent Gifts.

The Public Library has received, by gift from Mr. George B. Chase, the Library Chair and Table of Antonio Panizzi, formerly Principal Librarian of the British Museum. The table was in use by him for nearly forty years, and it is said that upon it he sketched the plan of the Reading Room of the British Museum. The chair was in his possession for more than twenty years. Both were obtained by Mr. Henry Stevens at the sale of Panizzi's effects in May, 1879, and were sent to this country in time to be exhibited at the Conference of Librarians at Boston.

A new Catalogue of the Charlestown Branch is in the printers' hands, and is completed to the letter E. It will contain the titles of about twenty-one thousand volumes, including the recent purchases with the income of the Harris fund.

The West Roxbury Free Library has transferred to the Boston Public Library its collection of books, numbering 3,068 volumes, and a Delivery Station has been opened at West Roxbury. Books can be taken out on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, from three to five o'clock. Bates

Hall and Jamaica Plain Branch books will be procured for readers at this Delivery on application.

The Dorchester Branch Library has recently received a carefully selected collection of English books of history, biography, and travels, purchased with the fund given, with its collection of books, by the Dorchester and Milton Circulating Library to the Boston Public Library, in May, 1876. They are catalogued in a separate list in this Bulletin.

INFORMATION FOR READERS.

CATALOGUES.

Bulletins.

New Books as soon as received are entered on the Bulletin Boards of each Library. The Bulletin Board for Bates Hall shows books added to the Central Library, and before titles appear on the Board the new books are displayed (with the shelf-number attached) in a glass case at the desk. The lists in the Lower Hall and at the Branches show only the books added to those departments. The Dorchester list is posted also at the Lower Mills Delivery, the Jamaica Plain list at the Roslindale Delivery and at the West Roxbury Delivery. The Bulletins are for sale (excepting those out of print) at five cents each. Books with numbers below 2110 are in the Lower Hall; with 2110 and above, in the Bates Hall. Those with Bri., Chn., Dor., E. B., J. P., Rox., S. B., or S. E. prefixed to the number are respectively in the Brighton, Charlestown, Dorchester, East Boston, Jamaica Plain, Roxbury, South Boston, or South End Branch.

Bates Hall of the Central Library.

I. The INDEX of 1861. (Includes the Bowditch Library.) Out of print.

II. The SUPPLEMENT of 1866. (Includes the Parker Library.) For sale in sheets at $2.00.

III. The CATALOGUE OF THE PRINCE LIBRARY. For sale at $1.00.

IV. The CATALOGUE OF THE TICKNOR COLLECTION of Spanish and Portuguese books. For sale at $5.

V. PUBLIC CARD CATALOGUE. This contains, with some exceptions, the titles of all the books in the Bates Hall.

VI. The OFFICIAL CARD CATALOGUE, which can be consulted, in cases of need, upon application, contains the titles of all books added to the Bates Hall since the publication of the Supplement in 1866, and includes some titles of books received between 1866 and 1871, which are not in the Public Card Catalogue.

Engravings.

There is a separate catalogue of the Tosti Engravings in drawers properly labelled at the north end of the Public Card Catalogue case in Bates Hall.

Lower Hall of the Central Library.

I. FICTION AND JUVENILES, with notes for readers. 6th edition, April, 1877. Embraces the "Index to Historical Fiction." 20 cents.

II. ARTS, SCIENCES, AND PROFESSIONS. 2d edition, September, 1871. 10 cents.

V. POETRY, DRAMA, COLLECTIONS, AND MISCELLANIES. 1st edition, August, 1870. 20 cents.

VI. CARD CATALOGUE. This contains the titles of all the books in the Lower Hall, alphabetically arranged, both by authors' names and by the titles of books. An assistant, who alone will have access to this catalogue, will furnish such information as may not be found in the printed catalogues.

VII. MANUSCRIPT CATALOGUES. Names of authors and titles of books added to the Lower Hall since the printing of the above lists will be found in folio catalogues on application at the Catalogue Desk.

Branches.

Catalogues are for sale: — Brighton, 25 cents, for the main Catalogue (including first Supplement), and 5 cents for each of the two subsequent Supplements; Charlestown, 25 cents each, parts 1 and 2; Dorchester, 10 cents; and 10 cents for the Supplemental list; East Boston, 25 cents; Jamaica Plain, 15 cents; Roxbury, 30 cents; South Boston, 25 cents; and South End (New Books), 3 cents.

Bates Hall books can be applied for at the several Branches and Deliveries, and, if they are in, they will be sent to the Branch or Delivery the same or following day.

The Bulletins since the issues of the Branch Catalogues constitute supplements to those several lists.

Prices of Catalogues to Non-Residents

are fixed to cover cost of manufacture and postage, as follows: —

Bates Hall. — I. Prince Catalogue, $1.75. (Other Bates Hall Catalogues not to be had.)

Lower Hall. — II. History, Biography, and Travel. $1.50.

III. Arts, Sciences, and Professions. 75 cents.

IV. Fiction and Juveniles. 75 cents.

V. Poetry, Drama, and Miscellanies. $1.00.

Bulletins. — VII. Quarterly issues, each, 20 cents.

The Bulletins must be applied for as issued, during January, April, July, and October of each year, as subscriptions cannot be received.

The Branch Catalogues and other publications will be furnished as far as practicable on similar terms, to be made known on application.

Central Periodical Reading Room.

A list of periodicals currently received (more than 800 in number, of which about one-half are kept in the Reading Room) is for sale at 5 cents.

For further particulars see "Handbook for Readers," distributed gratis.

- COPLEY, John Singleton. Miscellaneous papers and letters relating to the purchase of Copley's painting of Charles I demanding the five impeached members. Mss., 1828-79. 55 papers and letters. 4°. *G.33.21

The project of purchasing this picture was first set on foot in 1828 by Josiah Quincy; it was given up at that time by the failure to secure by subscription the sum demanded. In 1858 Mr. Quincy again started a subscription with a view of purchasing the picture from Lord Lyndhurst, its owner at that time. (The former owner had been Mr. Copley's widow.) The amount was finally made up, and in 1859 the picture was placed in the Public Library. This volume contains letters from Josiah Quincy, W. Allston, T. H. Perkins, H. Bromfield, J. Q. Adams, Lord Lyndhurst, Sara Greene, Eliza Susan Quincy, Amos A. Lawrence, J. I. Bowditch, N. I. Bowditch, Sir Charles L. Eastlake, David Sears, and Edward Everett.

- DANTE ALIGHIERI. La divina commedia. Milano, 1878. 499 pp. Colophon. Portr. 128°. *2799a.50

This, the smallest book ever made, was printed from the smallest type ever cast. One thousand copies were struck off and the type then melted, being too fine for distribution. Two sheets of printing paper cut into sixteen parts, each of which formed a signature, were enough to contain the whole 14,233 verses. The leaves measure 2x14-10 inches. The type was cast in 1850, and an effort was made to complete the book. Several compositors and proof-readers were obliged to give up the task, from its destructive effect on the eyes, and the attempt was abandoned till 1873. The composition has taken five years, and so difficult was the proof-reading that not more than twenty-four or thirty pages a month were printed. The colophon records the names of those concerned in its workmanship.

It can be seen in the Bates Hall show case, east side.

This is the first printed journal of the Massachusetts House of Representatives and is of excessive rarity. The first fifty-six pages cover the sessions of the house from the beginning of the legislative year, 25th May, 1715, to the 27th of August, but do not contain the proceedings of the later sessions of that year. The second part of the volume, sixty pages, embraces the proceedings of the entire legislative year, 1716-17. Of this part the first thirty-two pages are thought to be unique, no other copy being known to exist. The journal covering the period between May 25 and June 21, 1715, was printed by the house in consequence of the charges made by the Governor, Joseph Dudley, that "they had done little or nothing for the good of the Province, and that the Houses were distempered, and therefore he should Raise them by a short Prorogation, hoping they would come together in a better Temper." The printing was done without legal authority, the capacity of the house to act having been suspended by the precedent act of prorogation. The printing of the journal thus begun was continued by legal authority through the political year 1779-80, and with several intervals for the following years, 1784-5, 1807-8, and not again, it is said, until 1854 or 1855. On page 34 of the first part is found in manuscript the following: "Given me per Mr. Green, July 12, 1715." This is Bartholomew Green, printer of the journal, as well as of the Boston News Letter, the first newspaper which appeared in the British Colonies of North America.

This account is copied in part from the Boston Daily Advertiser, November 4, 1879, where can be found further particulars in regard to this interesting volume, which was received by gift from the Buffalo Young Men's Library.

From the churches and catacombs of Rome.

CATACOMBS OF ROME.

A note on the Catacombs was published in the Boston Public Library, History Catalogue, p. 232. The following note is intended to refer to such works as are not mentioned in that note, or to make further remarks in regard to those already cited.

The modern literature of the Catacombs commences with Bosio's "Roma sotterranea" [4750.50], although the subject had been considered in a fragmentary manner during the 16th century, before Bosio, by Baronius in the "Annales ecclesiastici," v. i, p. 455; ii, p. 117, 474 [3510.1]; by Ciacconi, whose notes remain unedited; by De Wingham, who had drawings made for his use, which have not been published; by Macarius: "Hagioglypta, sive picturae et sculpturae sacrae," Paris, 1846; and by others. Arringhi, in "Roma subterranea" [2750.1], published Bosio's plates with a Latin text, having, as additional matter, an account of the martyrs buried in the catacombs, compiled from the "Martyrologium Romanum" [3540.4]. The different custodians of the catacombs left some account of the discoveries made during their administrations. Fabretti, who was custodian in 1658, wrote an account of two cemeteries unknown to Bosio; he was followed by Boldetti, who wrote "Osservazioni sopra i cimiteri de' santi martiri di Roma" [4750.7]. Buonarroti, under the title "Osservazioni sopra alcuni frammenti di vasi antichi di vetro" [4061.26], gave an account of painted glass found in the catacombs. Bottari is the next who held the office, from whom we have anything on the subject; his work is merely a republication of Bosio's plates, poorly arranged, it is said. Marchi, his successor, commenced an elaborate and systematic work, "Monumenti delle arti cristiane primitive," etc. [4940.7], intended to carry out Bosio's plan; but it was never completed, the first volume only being published. He communicated his enthusiasm to De Rossi, author of the most valuable work on the subject. The 3d volume of his work, "La Roma sotterranea" [4750.52], has appeared since the publication of the note in the History catalogue. The publication of the 3d volume caused the issuing of a new edition of Northcote and Brownlow's compilation [4752.26] from De Rossi, which includes a summary of the matter contained in the new volume. The new edition will be complete in three vols. Two vols. have appeared: the first is devoted to the history of the catacombs; the second to Christian art, as shown in the catacombs; the third vol. will give the inscriptions. Parker's volume on the catacombs, in the twelfth vol. of his "Archaeology of Rome" [2754.6], contains a chronology, and plates showing the construction of the catacombs, and has photographs from the frescoes. A collation of the plates contained in Bosio, Arringhi, Perret [D.3, N.2], and De Rossi, is also given. Withrow [2559.67] gives a popular account based on De Rossi.

Periodicals.—For results of recent researches, consult in the following order as to value: "Bullettino di archeologia cristiana" [5210a.50], conducted by De Rossi; "Bullettino della commissione archeologica municipale" [3293.1]; "Monumenti inediti" [6750a.2], published by the Istituto di corrispondenza archeologica di Roma; and its other publications. The Journal of the Royal archaeological society [2238.50] also contains articles on the subject.

Christian art and church history, as they are illustrated by the paintings in the catacombs, are considered in the following: Auber's "Histoire du symbolisme religieux" [4075.50]; Cahier's "Nouv. mélanges d'archéologie" [C.270.30]; L'Épinois's "Les catacombes" [2799a.51]; Garrucci's "Storia dell'arte cristiana" [Ordered]; Guéranger's "Sainte Cécile et la société romaine" [4071.62]; Lundy's "Monumental Christianity" [4074.60]; Marriott's "Testimony of the Catacombs" [7453.27]; So. Kensington museum. Handbook [4075.62]; Twining's "Symbols and emblems" [4071.51]; Tyrwhitt's "Christian art" [A.220.3]. The subject has received thorough treatment in Northcote and Brownlow [4752.26] mentioned above.

- The little masters lived in the early part of the 16th century. Their works were characterized by a resemblance to Dürer's style, and from the small dimensions of their engravings, they were called the "Little masters." This work is largely a translation of Rosenberg's "Die Deutschen Kleinmeister" contained in Dohme's "Kunst und Künstler," v. 1, pp. 3-56 [3072.50.1]; and his work entitled "Sebald und Barthel Beham" [4965.44]. An English account may be found in Kugler's "Handbook" [4079.74]. A list of the works of the little masters can be found in Bartsch [8006.1], and Passavant [8006.6]. Ornithology.

The following list does not claim to be a bibliography, but merely gives the titles of the most important works upon the subject, now in the Library. Magazine articles, paper in the transactions of societies and similar publications, owing to their great number, have not been given.

E. Coues, in his Birds of the Colorado valley (3904.55), with its continuation (7872.53.5), gives a very minute bibliography of works on American ornithology, from 1612 to 1878, with careful indexes of authors and localities. The student will find this of great value. For obvious reasons Massachusetts has been treated with considerable minuteness. The other states may be found in Coues. Books of travel, works on natural history, and state and government surveys, may be consulted with profit.

Parliamentary Sessional Papers of Great Britain.

The parliamentary sessional papers in this library include the documents from the year 1807 to the year 1877, inclusive, forming nearly a complete set. The printed Index and Supplement of Bates Hall contain an analytical subject index for the years 1807 to 1865, inclusive, to be found under the head of Great Britain. From 1866 to the present time reference must be made to the numerical list and index, which accompany the documents of each year. This index, though not entirely satisfactory, will serve until the series can be more minutely indexed.

The papers of 1877 have recently been added to the library, and the principal contents are given below. The subjects of Civil Service, Intemperance, also the Labor troubles in the United States, etc., are fully treated in the reports of committees, etc. The figures give the number of the volume. Abbreviations: A. P.—Accounts and papers;—R. C.—Report, from Committees;—R. Cr.—Reports from Commissioners.

Part IX.

V. Scholastic Philosophy. — Continued.

A few other general authorities on scholasticism are: Hampden, in his Life of Aquinas [5609.6]; a view by Joseph Fabre, in his Histoire de la philosophie [5607.76.1, p. 383 etc.]; a short paper by Salisat on Abelard, Richard and Hugo de St. Victor, and Thomas Aquinas, in his Critique et histoire de la philosophie [7608.58]; an article on scholastic philosophy and science in the National Quarterly Review for Oct., 1878 [7374.137, p. 235]. and another in the same on scholasticism generally, in March, 1875, vol. 30. In the appendix to Bain's Mental and Moral Science [7607.1, p. 176] is Grote's discussion of the controversy on Nominalism and Realism (i.e., whether "Universals" or general ideas, such as Species, Genus, etc., are only names, or real things); and the same forms Appendix I. to Grote's Aristotle [2972.50.2]. Grote, at p. 246, gives the English of a sentence of Porphyry's, which Cousin, in the Introduction to Abelard's Si et non [2650.2, p. 1x], gives in the Greek of Porphyry and in the Latin of Boethius, as well as in French. From this one sentence, as transmitted from Aristotle through Porphyry and Boethius and left susceptible of different answers by Boethius, grew up, Cousin says, the whole controversy on Nominalism and Realism — the central thread of the whole scholastic philosophy. Grote's translation is as follows: "For example, I shall decline discussing, in respect to Genera and Species, (1) whether they have a substantive existence, or reside merely in naked mental conceptions; (2) whether, assuming them to have substantive existence, they are bodies or incorporeals; (3) whether their substantive existence is in and along with the objects of sense, or apart and separable." Mr. Grote does not so accurately pivot the history of scholasticism upon this one sentence as Cousin does; but puts in its place Aristotle's whole doctrine of the Categories, from the treatise on which it is taken; and he (as does Cousin) traces back the main controversy to the Greek philosophy, with Plato on the Realist side and Aristotle on the Nominalist, as the chief figures. A sketch of the same controversy by Meiners forms a paper in the transactions of the Göttingen Gesellschaft. d. Wiss. for 1796 [3294.3.12, historical part, p. 24]; and compare Prantl's account in his Logik im Abendlande [3603.66.2, p. 118]. An elaborate and instructive view of the times at which and channels through which the different treatises of Aristotle became known and used in the scholastic period, is in Jourdain's Recherches sur l'âge et l'origine des traductions latines d'Aristote, et sur des commentaires grecs ou arabes employés par les docteurs scholastiques [B.164.10], with which compare a paper by Wüstenfeld on Gerardus Cremonensis (the chief translator of Arabian works into Latin, the author says) and others, in the Göttingen Abhandlungen [3304.2.22, historical part, p. 55].

Different writers have variously limited and subdivided the scholastic period. Ueberweg makes two eras; 1, growth from Erigena to Abelard; and 2, complete development to end, from Alexander of Hales to the Renaissance and Reformation. Morell, in his Philosophy of religion [3452.11, p. 369], makes three, and this is perhaps the most usual division: 1. Ending with Abelard (subordination of philosophy to theology); 2. Alexander of Hales to Duns Scotus inclusive (alliance of philosophy and dogmatic theology); 3. Roger Bacon to close (commencement of separation of the two). Cousin, in the introduction to the Sic et non [2650.2, p. lxxv], makes three, but on his principle of considering France the focus of intellectual activity generally, and in particular of scholasticism, he takes French dates to define them, thus: 1. 11th century to 13th and to organization of University of Paris (infancy of scholasticism); 2. 13th to 15th centuries, period of prosperity of great universities and monastic orders (manhood of scholasticism); 3. 15th century to end of 16th (decline). Tennemann uses four periods: 1. Aleuin to Anselm, "absolute realism" (about 750-1100); 2. Roscellinus to Alexander of Hales, "disputes between nominalism and realism" (about 1100-1250); 3. Albertus Magnus to Lully, realism (about 1250-1300); 4. Occam to end of 15th century, gains by nominalism (about 1300-1600).

Without adhering to any one of these subdivisions, the following references will show, in an approximately chronological order, some of the materials offered by this Library for studying some of the chief scholastic personages or periods:—

Johannes Scotus Erigena, b. 800-810, d. 872-877, a realist. Works, in Migne [3460.5]; Scotus Erigène et la philosophie scholastique, par Saint-René Taillandier [6070.10 and 6108.2], a full examination of Scotus, his life and labors, and his relations to the mediæval mysticism and to modern philosophy. His mystical side is also discussed in chapter 2 of Helfferich's Christliche Mystik [6068.27.1, p. 177], with extracts at p. 55 of vol. 2; and his logical method in Prantl's Geschichte der Logik in Abendlande [3603.66.2, p. 20]; and see a paper on Erigena in the North British Review for May, 1855 [5299.1.23, p. 113], and for an account of his system and estimate of his influence, see Standenmaier's Philosophie des Christenthums [6095.11], p. 535, etc. Gerbert, afterwards pope Sylvester II., d. 1003; Life, in Italian, by Stelzi from the German of Hoek [3552.14]; writings, in Migne [3460.18]. Lanfranc, 1005-1089; works, in Migne [3460.28]; Berengarius Turonensis (Berenger de Tours), 999-1088, De sacra coena adversus Lanfrancum [5429.65].

Anselm, 1033-1109, whom Brownson, in his Review [5217.1, 3d ser., vol. 3, p. 7], calls "the sublimest genius, the profoundest and most original philosopher of the Middle Ages"; works, in Migne [3460.35]; his Liber meditationum [6069a.27]; his Monologion and Proslogion, in French [6065.3]; Life, by Eadmer, in the Acta Sanctorum [6700.1], vol. 10, being vol. 2 for April, p. 866; Short lives of both Lanfranc and Anselm, by Wilks [5555.9]; full lives by Hasse, in German [3557.9], and by Rémusat, in French [3557.8; 6060.9]; and a paper by Möhler in his Schriften und Aufsätze [6063.20.1, p. 32]. William of Champeaux, 1070-1121. Works, in Migne [3460.38].

Abelard, 1079-1142, apparently a conceptualist, i.e., a nominalist, somewhat varied. Works, in Migne [3470.5], which include the small remains of Hilarius and Berenger of Poitiers, disciples of Abelard; works, edited by Cousin [6042.3], not, however, including the Sic et non, issued by Cousin in a separate volume [2650.2] along with some other treatises, and an introduction giving a view of the first period of scholasticism, down to Abelard. This Introduction was summed up by Mignet in his official review of the work of the Academy for 1835-8 [3272.2.2, p. ix]; and there is a memoir read by Cousin before the French Academy on the Sic et non, before its publication in the Mémoires of the Acad. des Inscriptions [3272.2.1]. One of Cousin's volumes of Fragments [3605.3] is mostly occupied with Abelard. See also, Rémusat's Abelard, sa vie, sa philosophie et sa théologie [3606.1]; Tosti's Storia di Abelardo e die suoi tempi [3553.17]; and Prantl in his Logik, etc. [3603.66.2, p. 160], discusses Abelard's dialectic. For other works on him, especially of a biographical nature, see the Bates Hall catalogues. Articles in various periodicals, not usually of much significance as philosophical material, are (among others): in Analectic Magazine [5178.3.14, p. 329; 15, p. 33]; Edinburgh Review [3112.1.30, p. 352]; For. Quar. Rev. [3166.2.36, p. 257]; Fraser's Magazine [3187.1.28, p. 86]; Southern Literary Messenger [3190.15.9, p. 17]; Westminster Review [3146.1.32, p. 146].

Benjamin Franklin.

The Public Library has recently received from Doctor Samuel A. Green a collection of Frankliniana, consisting of one hundred and forty books and pamphlets by or concerning Franklin, eighty different portraits and engravings, and several autograph letters. This collection, which contains many rarities, will, in addition to what is already in the Library, form the nucleus of a special collection of Frankliniana, to be kept by itself, under such conditions as will insure its preservation, and tend to invite contributions for its enlargement, from those who possess anything which could add to its value.

It is proposed, in a future Bulletin, to describe more fully this interesting and valuable collection. Several of the volumes and engravings are described in an article in the Boston Daily Advertiser, December 30, 1879.

Trustees.

Professor Henry W. Haynes has been appointed to fill the vacancy in the Board of Trustees occasioned by the resignation of the Hon. Richard Frothingham.

CATALOGUES.

Bulletins.

New Books as soon as received are entered on the Bulletin Boards of each Library. The Bulletin Board for Bates Hall shows books added to the Central Library, and before titles appear on the Board the new books are displayed (with the shelf-number attached) in a glass case at the desk. The lists in the Lower Hall and at the Branches show only the books added to those departments. The Dorchester list is posted also at the Lower Mills Delivery, the Jamaica Plain list at the Roslindale Delivery and at the West Roxbury Delivery. The Bulletins are for sale (excepting those out of print) at five cents each. Books with numbers below 2110 are in the Lower Hall; with 2110 and above, in the Bates Hall. Those with Brl., Chn., Dor., E. B., J. P., Rox., S. B., or S. E. prefixed to the number are respectively in the Brighton, Charlestown, Dorchester, East Boston, Jamaica Plain, Roxbury, South Boston, or South End Branch.

- Of unknown authorship, this chateaufable, or prose romance, interspersed with songs of single rhyme couplets, has been preserved as a specimen of the early French Renaissance, dating perhaps from the latter part of the twelfth or the beginning of the thirteenth century. From the manuscript in the Bibliothèque Nationale have been reprinted, besides the above ed. by Suchier, the following editions of the text: — 1. In Fabliaux et contes des poètes français des 11-15e siècles, publiés par Barbazan. Augm. par Mém. T. Ier, pp. 380-418, Paris, 1808 [G.5542.2]. This text contains the music. — 2. In Nouvelles françaises en prose du 13e siècle, publiées par Moland et d'Héricault, pp. 231-309. Paris, 1856. With the music. [Bibliothèque elzévirienne. 2609.25.] — 3. Aucassin et Nicolette, roman de chevalerie provençal-picard. Publié avec trad. par A. Delvaux. Paris, 1866 [4694.25]. Printed in black letter with the music. — 4. A considerable fragment is to be found in K. Bartsch's Chrestomathie de l'ancien français. 3e éd. col. 279. Lpz., 1875 [*2685.78]. — 5. Ch. Leblanc has published a rare edition of about eighty copies in manuscript with miniatures. For poetical translations there are: — A. Bida's. Paris, 1878 [*2662.56]. Contains etchings by the translator, as well as the original text revised by Gaston Paris. An English poetical translation appears in G. L. Way's translation of Le Grand d'Aussy's Fabliaux. Lond., 1796 [*4635.22]. It is rendered interesting from the wood-cuts by Bewick. Wilhelm Hertz has published a German translation. Troppau, 1864. [Ordered.] A prose translation is to be found in Renouard's 3d edition of Le Grand d'Aussy's Fabliaux. T. 3e, p. 341. P., 1829 [*2636.13]. The original text is also here printed without alteration from Barbazan's Recueil [G.3542.2.1]. Another prose translation is given in Fauriel's Poésie provençale. T. 3e, p. 180. Paris, 1846 [*4636.10.3]. Fauriel claims for this not only a Provençal source, but a still remoter Arabian origin. In the last century, La Curne de Ste. Palaye translated it literally once in Le Mercure, again in 1752, and a third time under the title of "Les amours du bon vieux temps." In 1779 Sedaine dramatized it as an opera-comique. Comtesse de Murat in Lutins de Kermosel has given it as a fairy story, entitled "Etoilette et Ismir." See Voyages imaginaires, T. 35, p. 319-71. Amsterdam, 1879 [*2636.1.35]. B. Imbert has versified it. Barbazan [G.3542.2], Bartsch [2685.78], and Suchier [2663.68], have glossaries. W. H. Pater, in "Studies in the Renaissance" [1879.55; 4077.70], has an essay on this romance.

The first part, to 1583, was published during the author's life, in 1619, and is here republished for the first time. The second part is now first published from a manuscript in the Bibliothèque nationale. The history is not complete, and the end seems to be only a collection of notes and documents. It has a special interest as being the record of a contemporary.

MAYA CIVILIZATION OF YUCATAN.

Language, Hieroglyphics.—Of modern investigators Brasseur de Bourbourg has been the most active, and his works are of the first importance. This civilization is one of the oldest on the American continent of which any monuments remain. Brasseur's "Histoire des nations civilisées du Mexique" [2315.20] embraces the results of his early investigations, supported by authorities. The theories advanced in his later works, maintaining an extreme antiquity for the Mayas, and that the Eastern civilization had its source in America, have prejudiced their value in the minds of most critics. These views are first set forth in "Quatre lettres sur le Mexique" [441.6]. In his translation of the "Manuscrit Troano" [2630.50] he uses the Maya alphabet, furnished by Landa in "Relation des choses de Yucatan"

[4361.9]. This translation, with the preliminary observations on the Maya hieroglyphics, including colored fac-simile plates of the MS., and a vocabulary, is comprised in two folio volumes, published by the French government. Bancroft says that the translation is a failure, especially as the author confesses in a later work, "Bibliothèque mexico-guatemalaienne" [6144.2], that "he had begun his reading at the wrong end of the document." Landa's work furnishes the only key to the Maya hieroglyphics. Landa, the author, was a bishop of Yucatan in 1573, and the MS. of his work was discovered by Brasseur, and by him translated. Charencey has attempted the deciphering of certain portions of the Troano MS., and disputes the great antiquity claimed for it by Brasseur. See, beside the works noted above, articles in "Actes de la soc. philologique," v. 1, no. 3; v. 2 [4955.50]. De Rosny, as a result of his investigations, has, it is claimed, established the proper order of the reading of the document and increased the number of signs deciphered to one hundred and thirty-two from seventy-one given by Landa. See his "Essai sur le déchiffrement de l'écriture hiéroglyphique de l'Amérique centrale," Paris, 1876, F° [Ordered]; "Les écritures figuratives et hiéroglyphiques," Paris, 1870 [Ordered]; also, articles by him and others in "Archives de la Société américaine de France," 1875 [Ordered]; "Archives paléographiques de l'Orient et de l'Amérique" [6117.4]; "Comptes rendus" of the "Congrès internationale des Américanistes" [3217.5]. Bancroft, in the 2d volume of "Native races of the Pacific States" [2362.63], gives an account of the codices, with criticisms on the attempted interpretations. Beside the Troano MS. there are only two Maya MSS. mentioned by Bancroft. A fac-simile of one of them, the Dresden codex, was published by Kingsborough in his "Mexican antiquities" [in Boston Athenæum], as an Aztec production; and in Humboldt's "Institutions and monuments of America" [2364.3] fragments are illustrated. A fac-simile of the other MS., entitled "Mexican codex, no. 2," in the Bibliothèque nationale, was published under the auspices of the Ministry of public instruction of France.

In regard to the Maya language, see also Aubin in "Archives de la Soc. amér.," 1875 [Ordered]; Orozco y Berra, "Geografía de las lenguas," etc. [4311.19]; Perez, "Diccionario de la lengua Maya" [4310a.131]; Pimentel, "Cuadro descriptivo y comparativo de las lenguas indígenas de México" [4317.17].

Bibliography.—Brasseur de Bourbourg's catalogue of his unique collection [6144.9]; a bibliography published in "Archives paléographiques," no. 2 [617.4]; the references by Bancroft [2362.63.2.4]; a list of works on the Maya language and on Yucatan, in Leclerc's "Bibliotheca Americana" [2154.15], are the principal works to be consulted for the bibliography.

History.—Bancroft, in the 2d volume of "Native races," etc. [2362.63.2], and Short, in "North Americans of antiquity" [2312.75], give a view of Maya history, derived from the known authorities. Salisbury, on "The Mayas" [2315.71], briefly sketches the history, compiled from Brasseur de Bourbourg's "Hist. des nations civilisées" [2315.20], and notes the principal works. Ancona's "Historia de Yucatan" [2312.57] will more than supply the place of Cogolludo's "Historia" [in Harv. Coll. Libr.], a work which is now rare. Ternaux-Compan's "Mémoires" [2316.1] contains useful monographs. The note on Mexico, in the Tleknor catalogue, p. 227, may be used in many cases for the history of Yucatan. Landa's "Relation des choses de Yucatan" is a work of the first importance. Of the histories of Mexico, that also contain information on Yucatan, are Veytia's "Historia antigua de Mexico," 1896; Torquemada's "Monarchia Indiana" [4161.3]; and Las Casas' "Historia." The latter work, published for the first time from the author's original MS., is contained in the "Coleccion de docs. inéditos para la hist. de España," v. 62-66 [D.129b.162-66]; also separately [D.3105.50].

Archæology.—The following are the principal works on the antiquities of Yucatan:—Del Rio, in "Description of the ruins of an ancient city," etc. [2310.14]; one of the earliest accounts is that given by Zavala, in Kingsborough's "Mexican antiquities," v. 1, div. II, pp. 33-35;

Waldeck's "Voyage pittoresque et archéologique dans la province d'Yucatan" [22L.1]; Stephens' two works, "Incidents of travel in Central America" [4464.14]; "Incidents of travel in Yucatan" [4464.13], which give the results of two visits to Yucatan; Charnay "Cités et ruines américaines" [2337.13; Atlas 23H.1]. Norman's "Rambles in Yucatan" [1623.2; 621.4], although a hastily written work, may be consulted in connection with the other authorities. Bancroft's 4th volume [2302.63.4] summarizes the available accounts, with bibliographical lists. See also, reports by Schott, in Smithsonian reports for 1899, p. 388; 1871, p. 423 [7918.50]; Friedrichs-thal, "Les monuments de l'Yucatan," in "Nouvelles annales des voyages," v. 92, p. 291 [4289.60]. Brasseur de Bourbourg's works must also be consulted in regard to the archaeology; in addition to works cited above, his "Rapport sur les ruines de Mayapan et d'Uxmal au Yucatan," in "Archives de la commission sc. du Mexique," v. 2 [Ordered]. The results of explorations that have been made by Le Plongeon, a private investigator, who is still engaged in the work, have been given by S. Salisbury, jr., in the American antiq. soc. Proc. [4311.2], and also published separately [2315.71; 2312.51, 52]. Huebner and Aznar's "Mapa de la península de Yucatan" [4460.27] shows by marks the points where explorations have been made. Charnay is to take charge of an expedition, soon to be sent to Yucatan, under the auspices of Mr. Lorillard of N.Y. There is an essay by S. Habel in the Smithsonian Contr. for April, 1879 (No. 239), on the sculptures of Santa Lucía Cosumalhuapa.

This volume, printed for private circulation, contains a memoir of Captain Evelyn, who was descended collaterally from the same family as the author of "Sylvia." After some service in the "Seven years' war," and a few years of retirement on half-pay, he returned to the army as captain in the "King's Own," which arrived in Boston, June, 1774. He was with Percy's brigade on the 19th of April, and also at the battle of Bunker Hill. After the siege of Boston, he went with Howe's army to New York, and served with distinction in the battle of Long Island, as well as in other engagements. In the skirmish at Throg's Neck, 18th Oct., 1776, he received wounds of which he died three weeks later.

The chief interest of the volume is found in a series of letters written to his family and friends in England, between July 6, 1774, and Sept. 25, 1776, containing the observations and opinions of a British officer as to the character of the contest, as well as of the inhabitants; of the political leaders, especially Samuel Adams and John Hancock; of the conduct of the war, with incidents of camp life in Boston, and some account of the actions in which he was engaged, with the exception of that at Bunker Hill, which has not been found. The volume contains seven portraits, and was presented to the Library by the editor.

MURO, Gaspar. Vida de la princesa de Éboli. Con notas, documentos inéditos. Madrid, 1877. Illus. 8°. 3093.63

It is rarely that a critical work of this high type is written in Spain. The Princess of Éboli, during a great part of her life, had a great influence over Philip the Second, and it has always been supposed that the king was violently enamored of her, and that his jealousy caused him to banish and persecute the Princess and Antonio Perez in the latter years of his life. Señor Muro thinks that this is disproved by the letters and original documents he has consulted. Señor Cánovas del Castillo, the statesman and author, in his introduction, gives a masterly description of the character of Philip II, and the political condition of Spain during his reign.—*Señor D. In this work the author first brought forward the evidence, which he claims proves the spuriousness of Dino Compagni's "Chronicon Florentinum" [3710.1.9], and of Malispini's "Storia" [2760.10]. In a later work, "Die Chronik des Dino Compagni," he has maintained this view. For an account of the controversy to which this charge gave rise, consult the "Archivio storico italiano," 1874, p. 165; 1875, p. 453; and articles in "Historische Zeitschrift," by Hegel, v. 35, p. 32; and Bernhardt, 1877, p. 77 [5228.50]. The following works were published in regard to the dispute: Fanfani, "Dino Compagni vendicato." Milano, 1870; Hegel, "Die Chronik des Dino Compagni." Leipzig, 1875. Hegel takes issue with Schaeffer-Boichorst. Burckhardt says that in Germany Boichorst's view is generally accepted, while in Italy the genuineness of the Chronicle is maintained. The Italian view is set forth in Capponi's "Storia della repubblica di Firenze," v. 2, pp. 569-574.

- The manuscript notes, in the form of a journal of the military operations about New York in the winter of 1779-80, are apparently written by Lieut. Col. George Eld, of the Coldstream Guards, who joined the British army in New York, as an ensign in 1779, and served through the Southern campaign until the surrender at Yorktown in 1781. He criticises severely Tarleton's censures of Lord Cornwallis, and appears to have intended to write a parallel history or journal of the campaign on the alternate blank leaves, but does not bring it down even as far as the period where Tarleton's history begins. It seems probable that it was brought to a sudden termination by Col. Eld's death, in a skirmish with the French in Holland, in 1793.

Renaissance.

Part III. — Literary History.

This section of the list of works in this Library on the Renaissance is intended to embrace the principal works illustrating the literary history of the Renaissance in Italy, including the works of the principal authors. Burckhardt's "Civilisation of the period of the Renaissance" [2723.52], and Symonds' "Renaissance," furnish a list of many of the authorities. Voigt's "Die Wiederbelebung des classischen Alterthums" [2194.11] is the principal work, which gives a comprehensive view of the revival of classical learning, in addition to Symonds and Burckhardt.

Many works cited in the list on political history of the Renaissance, in Bulletin, No. 51, Oct., 1879, may be used with advantage for the Literary history. Among them, Dennistoun's "Dukes of Urbino" [2744.27], Gregorovius' "Gesch. der Stadt Rom" [4214.50]; Reumont's "Gesch. der Stadt Rom" [2752.4]. The biographical list to appear will also contain works illustrating this section of the subject. Reumont's "Lorenzo de' Medici" [2746.22] is one of the first importance in this class; and Vespasiano's "Vite di uomini illustri" [2954.51.1] is used by Burckhardt as a basis for a chapter on the revival of classical learning. A large part of the first volume of Villari's "Life of Machiavelli" [2747.51] is devoted to a consideration of the literature of the Renaissance. Malagola's "Vita di A. Urceo" [2744.59] gives a history of Hellenism at Bologna. The collections cited in the preliminary note to this list, in Bulletin No. 50, July, 1879, may also be consulted.

- This is the first edition of Michael Angelo's poems. Several poems, however, had been previously printed in collections. Concerning this and other editions of his poems, consult Prof. Norton's bibliography, which also has extensive notes, in the Harvard College Library Bulletin [6194.12]. The integrity of these poems was destroyed by the reconstruction to which they were subjected by the editor, to make them conform to the literary taste of the 17th century, and not until Guasti's edition of the poetry was published, in 1861, did the poems appear as written [2800.28].

Charlestown Branch Library.

The ordinance establishing the Public Library of the City of Charlestown was passed by the City Council on the 5th of June, 1860, and the Library was opened to the public on the 7th of January, 1862.

In the year 1873 the City of Charlestown, by annexation, became a part of the City of Boston; and in January, 1874, its Public Library, containing about fifteen thousand volumes, was made a Branch of the Boston Public Library. At this time its apartments were enlarged, and additional shelf-room and reading-room accommodations were provided. Since that time the entire Library has been rearranged preparatory to the publication of a new Catalogue which is soon to appear. This Catalogue will contain the titles of over twenty-two thousand volumes, with entries under the names of authors, titles, and subjects. Its scope has been enlarged by references to some of the best books in the Central Library, and by brief notes supplying dates or other information. All books in the Central Library, which can properly be taken from the building, may be lent to readers at the Branch Libraries; and they will be delivered, if in the Central Library at the time, on the day after the application is made.

THE BARTON LIBRARY. — The second part of the Catalogue of this Collection has recently been printed. It contains a list of the works relating to Shakespeare and his writings in the Barton, as well as in the general collection of the Boston Public Library, and supplements the first part previously published, which includes the editions of the works of Shakespeare, original and translated. Copies of the first two parts are for sale at $5.00.

A third part, to be published hereafter, will contain the miscellaneous works in the Barton Library.

CHARLESTOWN BRANCH LIBRARY. — A new Catalogue of this Library was published in May. This collection, which numbers over twenty-two thousand volumes, has been recently rearranged, and its classification made to conform to that of the other Branches.

The Lower Hall of the Central Library, which was closed for some time for repairs, is now open. During July and August the delivery of books will cease at eight o'clock, P.M., and the Reading Room will be closed at nine.

INFORMATION FOR READERS.

CATALOGUES.

Bulletins.

New Books as soon as received are entered on the Bulletin Boards of each Library. The Bulletin Board for Bates Hall shows books added to the Central Library, and before titles appear on the Board the new books are displayed (with the shelf-number attached) in a glass case at the desk. The lists in the Lower Hall and at the Branches show only the books added to those departments. The Dorchester list is posted also at the Lower Mills Delivery, the Jamaica Plain list at the Roslindale Delivery and at the West Roxbury Delivery. The Bulletins are for sale (excepting those out of print) at five cents each. Books with numbers below 2110 are in the Lower Hall; with 2110 and above, in the Bates Hall. Those with Brit., Chn., Dor., E. B., J. P., Rox., S. B., or S. E. prefixed to the number are respectively in the Brighton, Charlestown, Dorchester, East Boston, Jamaica Plain, Roxbury, South Boston, or South End Branch.

- VI. CARD CATALOGUE. This contains the titles of all the books in the Lower Hall, alphabetically arranged, both by authors' names and by the titles of books. An assistant, who alone will have access to this catalogue, will furnish such information as may not be found in the printed catalogues.

Branches.

Catalogues are for sale: — Brighton, 25 cents, for the main Catalogue (including first Supplement), and 5 cents for each of the two subsequent Supplements; Charlestown, $1.00; Dorchester (Supplemental list), 10 cents; East Boston, 25 cents; Jamaica Plain, 15 cents; Roxbury, 30 cents; South Boston, 25 cents; and South End (New books), 3 cents.

Bates Hall books can be applied for at the several Branches and Deliveries, and, if they are in, they will be sent to the Branch or Delivery the same or following day.

The Bulletins since the issues of the Branch Catalogues constitute supplements to these several lists.

Prices of Catalogues to Non-Residents

are fixed to cover cost of manufacture and postage, as follows: —

- Bates Hall.* — I. Prince Catalogue, $1.75. (Other Bates Hall Catalogues not to be had.)
Lower Hall. — II. History, Biography, and Travel. $1.50.

In his "List of the principal books relating to the life and works of Michelangelo," published in the "Bibliographical contributions" of the Harvard College library [6194.12], Prof. C. E. Norton characterizes the most important works, especially the sources. Use has been made of this list in the preparation of this note. Passerini's "Bibliografia" [6100.7.10] furnishes a list more extensive, embracing works of a secondary importance. The "Gazette des beaux-arts," 2e pér., v. 13, p. 301 [7320a.50.13], contains a bibliography by Anatole de Montaiglon, and in the Academy of July 15, 1876 [7300a.2] is a "Bibliography of the Michel Angelo festival."

The contemporary biographies by Condivi and Vasari are the first sources of the knowledge of Michael Angelo. The edition of the former, published at Florence in 1746, of which the edition published at Pisa, 1823 [4077.32], is a reprint, contains a continuation, by Ticiatti, and annotations by Gori, Manni, and Mariette, and is considered the best edition. A German translation by Valdek is contained in the "Quellenschriften f. Kunstgeschichte und Kunsttechnik des Mittelalters und d. Renaissance," v. 6 [4076.18.6]. Milanesi's edition of Vasari [8075.57], containing valuable notes, is the best edition of that author. Vasari in his second edition used Condivi's biography to continue his first account.

The biographies published since the publication of Guastaldi's edition of "Le Rime di M. A. B.," and of the Milanesi's edition of "Le lettere" [Ordered] [2800.28], are especially valuable as giving the biographical information which these works furnish.

Among the later works on Michael Angelo are Gotti's "Vita" [4074.73], embodying some of the biographical material found in his letters. Wilson's "Life and works of M. B." [4074.68], which is largely a translation of Gotti, contains technical studies of the paintings in the Sistine Chapel, which constitute the principal value of the work, as the translation is poor. Grimm's "Life" [8007.12; German 8067.11] is the most popular account for the English reader, and considers him in connection with the history of his time, and contains about all the the general reader will desire. Perkins' "Michael Angelo and Raphael" "endeavors to bring out the distinctive peculiarities of each by contrast." Springer's "Raffaël und Michelangelo" [4061.39; 8072.55.2, pt. 2], containing the results of thirty years' research, is an important work, written in the light of modern criticism. Sweetser, in the series of "Artist biographies," gives a brief popular account in compact form, intended for the general reader. Clément's work [in French 4069.7; in English 4078.14] is a reliable compilation. The latest Eng. ed. contains translations of some of Michael Angelo's letters. The value of the following compilations is principally in the individual treatment and criticism or in the drawings which they contain. They all were published before Michael Angelo's letters were given to the public. Black's "M. A. B., sculptor, painter, and architect," Lond., 1875 [4072.66]; Duppa's "Life," Lond., 1806 [8008.32]; Harford's "Life," Lond., 1857 [4065.5]; Quatremère de Quincy's "Histoire de la vie et des ouvrages de M. A. Buonarroti" [4065.2].

Among many critical essays may be mentioned Reynolds' "Discourses" [4072.2.3, p. 34]; Ruskin in his "Modern painters" [8072.50], and "The relation between Michel Angelo and Titoret" [4079.58]. For literary criticism, see Taylor's "Michael Angelo considered as a great poet" [2749.53], and Symonds' notes to his translation of the sonnets [2775.51].

His works may be studied in the Tosti collection of engravings in this Library, which contains, in a folio form, engravings from the frescoes in the Sistine Chapel; Krell's "Klassiker der Malerei" [C. B. 13.1], consisting of heliotype reproductions; Landon's "Vie des peintres," v. 1 [8061.8.1], with outline sketches from paintings by Michael Angelo. The autotype illustrations in Black's "Life of M. A. B." [4072.66] are in many cases from original drawings. In addition to the biographical works noted above, consult also the general histories of painting, among which may be mentioned Kügler's "Italian schools" [4079.74], and Crowe and Cavalcaselle [8003.6]. The latter is critical in treatment, and is the result of original investigation. Symonds' "Renaissance in Italy," v. 1, on the "Fine Arts" [2722.51.1], considers the relation of Michael Angelo to the Renaissance.

There is a list of Michael Angelo's literary works in the "List on the literary history of the Renaissance," published in the Bulletin for April, 1880, p. 211.

John Davis, an English navigator, born about 1552, died 1605; made three voyages in 1585-6 to discover a North-west passage. Later, he made several voyages to different parts of the world, including the Straits of Magellan and the East Indies. He is credited by Markham with having discovered the Falkland Islands in 1592. This honor has also been claimed for Sir John Hawkins. His works, which consist of accounts of his voyages, and a work on navigation entitled "Seaman's secrets," are reprinted in this volume. The map which accompanies this work is a fac-simile of the map entitled "Hydrographical description," published about 1600. It is found in some editions of Hakluyt. The original map is thought by the editor to have been constructed by Molyneux, and drawn by Wright on the projection, the principle of which he discovered, and is considered to be the "New Map," with the augmentation of the Indies, referred to by Shakespeare in "Twelfth Night," Act iii, scene 2. See Trans. of New Shakspeare soc., 1877-79, Pt. I, pp. 88-100, and Cortés' note on the "New Map," in "The Voyages," p. lxxxv [2264.66]. There is a review of the work in the "Nation," June 17, 1880.

The editor states that this is the first of several maps, varying in title and form, drawn by Joliet after his exploration of the Mississippi in 1673, and, with the exception of Marquette's sketches, which have appeared in several collections, thought to be the earliest on which the great lakes and the course of the Mississippi are traced from personal knowledge. A map described by Parkman, and thought to be earlier than this, bears an inscription indicating that knowledge was possessed of the fact of the course of the Mississippi to the Gulf of Mexico previous to Joliet's voyage, although the river does not appear on the map. Harris, from internal evidence, considers it also to be the work of Joliet. Gravier describes his other known unedited maps, and gives some account of the cartographical sources. The original map has been secured by Le Clerc for the Maisonneuve collection.

Each of these volumes is composed of a continuous sheet of paper, on which are represented sketches made and colored by hand, forming a panorama of the road and its surroundings from Tokio to Nikko. With the exception of the houses and trees, these scenes give a tolerable idea of the actual appearance of the region. At intervals are to be noticed circular pieces of gilt. The largest signifies the place where the Tycoon spent the night; the next in size, where he took his principal meal; and the smallest, where his less important meal.

The scene of this story is laid in Memphis during the reign of Ptolemy Philometer, and gives us a view of Egyptian life when it had been affected by Grecian influences.
The plot relates to the intrigues of Eugertes to gain the control of the whole of Egypt, and the love affairs of the two sisters, in which prominent characters, including Queen Cleopatra, become interested.

- GIOVANNI FIORENTINO, Ser, fl. 1378. Il pecorone, nel quale si contengono cinquanta novelle antiche. Milano, 1815. Portr. [Raccolta de' novellieri italiani, v. 16.] 12° *2788.7
These novels were composed in 1378, and are sometimes tales from the old chroniclers; and again are in the style of the "Fabliaux."
- GIRALDI-CINTHIO, G. B., 1504-1573. Heecatom-mithi ouero cento novelle. Venetia, 1608. 2 v. in 1. 8° *2772.9
These novels contain much relating to the house of Este at Ferrara. See account in Burckhardt's Renaissance, v. 1, p. 72 [2723.52.1].
The historical value of the novels of the 16th century is set forth in Burckhardt and Symonds. They chronicle, in narrative form, many biographical and historical facts, and accurately picture the manners and customs of the time. See also Folengo and Sacchetti in this list, and under title-heading, Novelle, Raccolta, etc. in Bates Hall catalogue.
- GIRONI, R., ed. Raccolta di lirici italiani dall' origine della lingua sino al secolo XVIII. Milano, 1808. [Classici italiani, v. 230.] 8° 4808.9

THE BARTON LIBRARY. — The second part of the Catalogue of this Collection has recently been printed. It contains a list of the works relating to Shakespeare and his writings in the Barton, as well as in the general collection of the Boston Public Library, and supplements the first part previously published, which includes the editions of the works of Shakespeare, original and translated. Copies of the first two parts are for sale at $5.00. A third part will contain the miscellaneous works in the Barton Library.

The Twenty-eighth Annual Report of the Library has recently been published.

THE TICKNOR LIBRARY. — The Catalogue of the Spanish library and of the Portuguese books bequeathed by George Ticknor to the Boston Public Library, together with the collection of the Spanish and Portuguese literature in the general library, is for sale at five dollars.

The Trustees have several copies of Wyman's Genealogies and Estates in Charlestown, 1629-1818, in two volumes, royal octavo, for sale at eight dollars the set, or for exchange for town or other histories not already in the Charlestown Branch Library.

CATALOGUES.

Bulletins.

New Books as soon as received are entered on the Bulletin Boards of each Library. The Bulletin Board for Bates Hall shows books added to the Central Library, and before titles appear on the Board the new books are displayed (with the shelf-number attached) in a glass case at the desk. The lists in the Lower Hall and at the Branches show only the books added to those departments. The Dorchester list is posted also at the Lower Mills Delivery, the Jamaica Plain list at the Roslindale Delivery and at the West Roxbury Delivery. The Bulletins are for sale (excepting those out of print) at five cents each. Books with numbers below 2110 are in the Lower Hall; with 2110 and above, in the Bates Hall. Those with Brl., Chn., Dor., E. B., J. P., Rox., S. B., or S. E. prefixed to the number are respectively in the Brighton, Charlestown, Dorchester, East Boston, Jamaica Plain, Roxbury, South Boston, or South End Branch.

- Mounted on 13 blank leaves, and bound and indexed with documents relating to Cambridge. The earliest bears the date May 4, 1764, and is a copy of the list of subscribers to the Library of Harvard college, after its destruction by fire. It is in the handwriting of John Winthrop, b. 1714, d. 1779, Professor at the college, 1738-1779. It may be compared with the list found in Quincy's History of Harvard university, vol. 2, pp. 484-494, from which it differs. The last, dated Dec. 26, 1826, is a report, signed by Charles Jackson, Nathl. Bowditch and F. C. Gray, a committee appointed to inquire into the income and expenses of the college, and is in the handwriting of President Kirkland.

 REMARKS on the trial of the earl of Stirling at Edinburgh, April 29th, 1839, for forgery. By an English lawyer. L., 1839. 12° *7687.8
 Alexander Humphrys, calling himself Humphrys Alexander, earl of Stirling, laid claim to the earldom as early as 1825. In 1839 he was arrested on charge of forging seventeen documents, by which he sought to prove descent from Wm. Alexander, 1st earl of Stirling. His case was dismissed, and he, in 1846, removed to Washington, D.C., where he died in 1859. An account of him is found in Charles Rogers: Memorials of the house of Alexander, Vol. 2, p. 210-242 [2452.51].

 WINTHROP, Adam, Harvard college, 1770, died at sea, 1774. Manuscripts G.35.5

A volume, in small quarto, containing, in the handwriting of Adam Winthrop, mathematical problems (67 leaves), and a "Journal of a voyage from the island of St. Christopher towards London . . . in the good ship Londonderry" . . . (15 leaves.) This volume or log is dated from June 8 to August 6, inclusive; the year is not mentioned. The date, 1770, is found in one of the pages of the mathematical problems.

- WINTHROP, William, Harvard college, 1770, d. 1825. Manuscripts G.35.4
 Cash book, in his handwriting, containing entries of payments to Washington, and other officers of the American army, from February 15—April 7, 1776. 13 leaves; small quarto. This is preceded by a manuscript copy, in four leaves, of Pope's translation of the Odyssey, Book 8, verses 267, 268, 291-300; etc.

- WINTHROP papers. Manuscripts. Mounted in three folio volumes G.41.10

The earliest of these papers is dated 1755; the latest, 1883; most of them bear date before 1824. They comprise letters and documents written by or addressed to the following persons:—

1. Hon. John Winthrop, born 1714, died 1779; professor at Harvard College, 1738-1779.
2. Madam Hannah Winthrop, his widow.
3. Capt. Adam Winthrop, Harvard College, 1767; died at sea, 1774; son of the preceding.
4. Judge James Winthrop, Harvard College, 1769; Librarian at Harvard, 1772-1787; died, 1821.
5. Hon. William Winthrop, Harvard College, 1770; died, 1825.
6. Various other members of the family. There are also other documents.

A few other manuscripts from this collection of the Winthrop papers may be found in a volume of manuscripts in regard to Harvard College and Cambridge, mentioned in this Bulletin [G. 41.9].

 WIT, Frederik de, and others. [A collection of 298 maps, chiefly of parts of Europe.] Amsterdam [etc.], 1584-1717. 2 v. F° *6270a.51

This collection represents largely the work of the Dutch map-makers of the 17th century. The maps vary in size from 14 x 19 in. to 19 x 23 in. Only 9 of them are dated. F. de Wit's name is on 59 (one dated 1666, another 1671); Jan Jansson, 39 (one dated 1629); Nic. Vischer, 29 (one dated 1632); W. and J. Blaeu, 39; Phillip Lea, 25. The names of H. Moll, Robt. Morden, J. de Ram, Abraham Ortelius (dated 1584), etc., also appear. 53 maps have no names. Each vol. contains a manuscript index.

- TAYLOR, Meadows. A noble queen: a romance of Indian history. New ed. 32.52
This story illustrates the life of Queen Chand Beeby, queen regent of the Beejapoor kingdom from 1590 to 1599. This kingdom, at that time, with the exception of the Moghul empire of Delhi, was the largest Mussulman power in India. The historical account of the queen, who is represented as accomplished and enlightened, is given by the native contemporary and historian, Mahomed Kasim Ferishta. His work has been translated by John Briggs under the following title, "History of the rise of the Mahomedan power in India," Lond., 1829 [5047.16]. The account of events in which Queen Chand was concerned is contained in vol. 3.

These novels are said to give a faithful representation of the times, and of the Neapolitan court.

Some of his novels are also contained in "Novelliero italiano," v. 2 [2772.19.2]; Roscoe's "Italian novelists," v. 2 [2772.18.2]; "Raccolta di novelle," v. 2 [4808.12].

- MAZZUCHELLI, G. M. Gli scrittori d'Italia, cioè notizie storiche [etc.]. Brescia, 1753-63. 2 v. in 6. F°*2170.1

The plan of this work was so comprehensive that the author, who wished to refer to all the original sources, was able to carry it only through the letter B.

- MEDICI, Lorenzo de', Florentine prince, and patron of literature, 1448-1492. Poesie. S'aggiungono le stanze in lode della Nencia, i Beoni, le rime spirituali, e altre poesie inedite con alcune memorie attenenti alla sua vita, ec. Bergamo, 1763. 8°*2795.2

Lorenzo de' Medici contributed largely to the revival of the Italian literature in the 15th century. In Roscoe's "Life of L. de' Medici" [2741.9] may be found translations of some of his poems. For his "Sonetti" see Gironi "Raccolta" [4808.8]; "Simposio altrimenti i Beoni" in Berni, "Opere burlesche," v. 3 [4769.6.3]; and "La Nencia da Barberino" in Ferrario, "Poesie rusticali" [4808.11]. See also Cionacci, in this list; and Galetti's ed. of "Laude Spirituali." Florence, 1863. [Ordered.]

- MOLZA, F. M., poet and novelist, 1489-1544, and MOLZA, Tarquinia. Poesie volgari e latini. Bergamo, 1747-54. 3 v. 16°2799.3

F. M. Molza's poems are imitations of Petrarch and his novels of Boccaccio.

- MORI DA CENO, Ascanio de', fl. abt. 1590. Novelle. Milano, 1814. Portr. [Raccolta de' novellieri ital. v. 12.] 12°*2788.4
- Same. Firenze, 1832. Portr. [Raccolta de' novellieri ital., v. 1.] 8°2773.14.1

The author was attached to the court of Henri di Gonzaga at Mantua. These works are founded upon events of the time.

- NAVAGERO, A., modern Latin poet, 1483-1529. Opera omnia. Patavii, 1718. Portr. 4°*2800.26

See also "Carmina quinque illustrum poetarum" [4938.29].

- NEGRI, G. Istoria degli scrittori fiorentini. Ferrara, 1722. F°*2160.9

Contains notices of about 2,000 authors, and, although not free from gross errors, is a useful contribution to literary history.

- NOVELLE di alcuni autori fiorentini. Milano, 1815. Portr. [Raccolta de' novellieri ital., v. 13.] 16°*2788.5
- NOVELLE di autori senesi. Milano, 1815. 2 v. Portr. [Raccolta de' novellieri ital., v. 14, 15.] 16°*2788.6

- PALMIERI, M., Florentine historian, 1405-1475. De captivitate Pisarum sive de bello contra Pisanos gesto a Florentinis anno MCCCXVI commentarius. (In Muratori. Rerum Ital. script., v. 19.)*2720.1.19
- Della vita civile trattato. Milano, 1825. Portr. 16°3568.9

See also Pandolfini for a similar work on the life of a citizen in the time of the Renaissance.

- PANDOLFINI, A., Florentine citizen, 1360-1446. Trattato del governo della famiglia. Con note. Milano, 1811. 8°3566.12

The Library has other editions. This work has until recently been attributed to Pandolfini. It is now claimed that L. B. Alberti was the author, and it is included in the latest edition of his works. See Palermo's Prolegomeno to the "Padre di famiglia," Florence, 1872. Palermo argues that Alberti was the author.

- PARABOSCO, G., Italian poet, d. 1557. I diporti. Venetia, 1607. 16°4809a.20
- Same. Milano, 1814. Portr. [Raccolta de' novellieri ital., v. 14.] 16°*2788.2

This edition is based upon that published at Venice in 1552. The Library has other editions.

- PARANGON, Le, des nouvelles honnestes et delectables. Réimprimé d'après l'édition de 1531, par E. Mabille. P., 1865. 12°G.287.21

A collection of 47 stories from Poggio-Bracciolini, Boccaccio, and others. At the end is "Paroles joyeuses et dictz mémorables des anciens, rédigez par F. Petrarque."

THE BARTON LIBRARY. — The second part of the Catalogue of this Collection has recently been printed. It contains a list of the works relating to Shakespeare and his writings in the Barton, as well as in the general collection of the Boston Public Library, and supplements the first part previously published, which includes the editions of the works of Shakespeare, original and translated. Copies of the first two parts are for sale at five dollars. A third part will contain the miscellaneous works in the Barton Library.

THE TICKNOR LIBRARY. — The Catalogue of the Spanish library and of the Portuguese books bequeathed by George Ticknor to the Boston Public Library, together with the collection of the Spanish and Portuguese literature in the general library, is for sale at five dollars.

The City Council has assigned a portion of the basement of the new High School building for the use of the South End Branch.

CATALOGUES.

Bulletins.

New Books as soon as received are entered on the Bulletin Boards of each Library. The Bulletin Board for Bates Hall shows books added to the Central Library, and before titles appear on the Board the new books are displayed (with the shelf-number attached) in a glass case at the desk. The lists in the Lower Hall and at the Branches show only the books added to those departments. The Dorchester list is posted also at the Lower Mills Delivery, the Jamaica Plain list at the Roslindale Delivery and at the West Roxbury Delivery. The Bulletins are for sale (excepting those out of print) at five cents each. Books with numbers below 2110 are in the Lower Hall; with 2110 and above, in the Bates Hall. Those with Bri., Chn., Dor., E. B., J. P., Rox., S. B., or S. E. prefixed to the number are respectively in the Brighton, Charlestown, Dorchester, East Boston, Jamaica Plain, Roxbury, South Boston, or South End Branch.

- The "Cymbalum mundi" consists of four allegorical dialogues in which religion is satirized. It originally appeared as a translation of an old Latin manuscript found in a monastery. The dialogues are preceded by a preface addressed to Pierre Tryocan (believing) by Thomas du Clever (incredulous), the ostensible translator. Luther, under the anagram of Rhetulus, and Bucer, under that of Cubercus, appear as disputants.

- NOTE ON THE GYPSIES.
- History, origin, etc.—The author of the above work summarizes in the 9th ed. of the Encyclopædia Britannica [B. H. Desk] the present knowledge of the gypsies, with a bibliographical list. For a detailed examination of evidence regarding their origin consult Bataillard's "État de la question de l'ancienneté des Tsiganes en Europe," Paris, 1877 [Ordered], also published in Congrès intern. d'anthropologie. Compte rendu, 1876, p. 321 [6235.20.1876]; and his article, "Sur les origines des Bohémiens ou Tsiganes," Paris, 1876, also published in the "Revue critique," Sept., Oct., 1875.

Grellman, in his "Versuch über die Zigeuner," Leipzig, 1783, 1787, transl. into English by Raper [2340.12], first collected and published the materials for the history of the gypsies contained in the mediæval chronicles and histories, and his work is one of the principal sources of information. Bataillard, who has been engaged for years collecting materials for a more complete history, has from time to time published the results of his researches in different periodicals.

His articles entitled "Nouvelles recherches sur l'apparition et la dispersion des Bohémiens en Europe," in the Bibl. de l'Ecole des chartes, 1^e sér., v. 5, p. 438, 542; 2^e sér., v. 1, p. 14 [2272.1], are of the first importance, although he has since modified the views there advanced. In these articles the author first formulated the theory suggested by Pott, in the "Zeitschrift d. deutschen morgenländischen Gesellschaft," 1849, p. 321 [6935.2.1849], which identifies the gypsies with the Djatts or Jats of Sind in Hindustan.

This theory has been supported by Burton, who, in his "Sind and the races that inhabit that valley," London, 1851, claims to have first called attention to the resemblance between the two races. Trumppp's "Grammar of the Sindhi language" furnishes the means for a comparison of the gypsy and Sind dialect.

De Goëje is the latest writer supporting this theory. In his "Bijdrage tot de geschiedenis der zigeuners," Amsterdam, 1875, he traces the course of a colony of Djatts, deported from India into the Byzantine empire, where they arrived at about A.D. 855. In regard to this identification, see also an article in the Edinb. rev., July, 1878, p. 117 [3162.50.148].

Bataillard has been led by later research to reject the theory that the origin of the whole gypsy race is to be traced to the Djatts, and considers that the gypsies have inhabited Eastern Europe from prehistoric times, and attributes to them the introduction of bronze into Europe. See his articles mentioned in the first paragraph, and an essay, "Les Zlotars, Tsiganes fondeurs en bronze dans la Galicie orientale," Paris, 1878 [Ordered]; also an article in Bulletin de la Soc. d'anthropol., 1879 [4236.50], for the arguments with which he supports these propositions.

Ascoli, in his "Saggi Indiani," v. 2 [Ordered], gives the results of philological investigations of the affinity of the Bohemian and Indian languages, with conclusions favorable to Bataillard's views regarding an early migration from India. See in this connection Bataillard "Sur le état actuel de l'affinité du Bohémien avec les langues de l'Inde," in Bull. de la Soc. d'anthropol., fév., 1874. Miklosich, who has given the results of extensive researches in the following works, "Ueber die Wanderungen und die Mundarten der Zigeuner" [6290a.2], and his "Beiträge zur Kenntniss der Zigeuner Mundarten" [2953.58], takes opposite ground from Ascoli, and fixes the date of the emigration from India as having taken place in the 9th century.

Hopf's "Die Einwanderung der Zigeuner," Gotha, 1870, is valuable for the synopsis of documents discovered by him in Greece containing evidence of the sojourn of the gypsies in Greece.

Other important works contributing to the history of the gypsy race are cited under the names of countries. See also Bataillard's "Les derniers travaux relatifs aux Bohémiens," Paris, 1872; also in Rev. Critique, Dec., 1871, p. 191.

Language.—Pott's "Die Zigeuner in Europe und Asien" [2955.26] is a work of the first importance, and characterizes previous works upon the gypsies. Miklosich's works mentioned above [6290a.2; 2953.58]; Mueller's "Beiträge zur Kenntniss der Rom-Sprache," in Sitzungsberichte d. K. Akad. d. Wissenschaften, v. 61, pp. 149-206; v. 70, pp. 85-100 [3350.6.61.70]; Paspatis' "Memoir on the language of the gypsies," in Journal of the Am. oriental soc., v. 7, p. 143 [4244.7.7], with a survey of previous works; and Ascoli's "Zigeunerisches" [5036.20],—are among the most important works. Articles by Pott and others, in "Zeitschrift d. deutschen morgenländischen Gesellschaft" [6955.2], give the results of later research. The Index is on 6955.5.

Manners, customs, etc.—In Groome's "In gipsy tents" [2467.60] may be found entertaining delineations of gypsy life. Borrow's "Zincali" [889.5; 935.3], Leland's "English gipsies" [2469.6], and Smith's "English gipsies in Norway" [2865.5], also contain interesting descriptions. A list of works of fiction illustrating gypsy life is given in the Boston Public Library, Lower Hall, Class list of fiction, p. 58.

English.—Groome's "In gipsy tents" [2467.60], relates experiences among the gypsies of England. Smith's "Gipsy life" [2467.64] gives the less favorable phases of gypsy character, and is controverted by Groome. Leland's "English gipsies" [2469.6] relates to manners, customs, and language. Leland and Tuckey have written "Gipsy songs" [2469.55.58] in the gypsy tongue, which are thought to be good imitations. Other works of value are Borrow's "Romano-Lavo-ili" [2469.7]; Crofton's articles in the Papers of the Manchester Literary Club [2504.50], viz.: "Annals of the English gipsies under the Tudors," v. 6, p. 93; "Former costume of the gypsies," v. 2, p. 66; "Gypsy life in Lancashire and Cheshire," v. 3, p. 82; Simson's "History" [935.2] and his "Essays" [3825.61]; Heyland's "Hist. survey" [955.6]. Smart and Crofton's "Dialect of the English gipsies" [2483.50], the most extensive work upon the language, contains a bibliography.

See also articles in Blackwood, Notes and Queries, and other magazines. Poole's "Index to periodical literature" [3182.2] will direct to many of these.

France.—Rochas' "Les Parias de France" [2293.8]; Baudrimont's "Vocabulaire de la langue des Bohémiens," etc. Bordeaux, 1862. Michel, "Le pays basque," Paris, 1857.

Germany.—Lieblich's "Die Zigeuner in ihrem Wesen und ihrer Sprache" [5036.21].

Italy.—Predari's "Origine e vicende del Zingari" [2597.7] and a portion of Ascoli's "Zigeunerisches" [5036.20] relate to Italy.

Spain.—Borrow's "Zincali" [889.5; 935.3] is the principal authority. Mayo's "El Gitanismo," Madrid, 1870, is a late work. See also the note on the gypsies of Spain, in the Tiecknor catalogue, p. 167.

Hungary.—Bright's "Travels" [2861.5] gives a good account of the gypsies in Hungary. Liszt's "Die Zigeuner und ihre Musik in Ungarn" [2868.78]. Möckesch "Heldesbüchlein," Bukarest, 1873.

There is an article by Pott in Zeitsch. der morgenl. Gesells., v. 3, p. 321: "Mundart der ungrischer Zigeuner." See also "Zigeunerisches aus den ungrischen Karpaten," "Zigeunerisches aus der Bukovina," in Miklosich's "Beiträge," pt. 4 [2953.58]; a chapter describing the customs, etc., in Tissot's "Unknown Hungary," v. 2 [2867.54].

Bohemia.—Sváték, "Die Zigeuner in Böhmen," in his "Culturhistorische Bilder aus Böhmen," pp. 295-311. Wien, 1879 [2955.56].

Norway.—Sundt's "Beretning om Fante-eller Landstrygerfolket i Norge" and "Anden aars Beretning om Fante-folket," Christiania, 1852, 62, are the principal works. See also "Smith's Tent life with English gipsies in Norway" [2865.51].

Austria.—Wratislaw, "Versuch," Prag, 1868 [Ordered].

Russia.—Boehlingk, "Ueber die Sprache der Zigeuner in Russland," in Bull. de la classe hist. philol. de l'Acad. imp. des sc. de St. Pétersbourg, T. 10, pp. 1-26; 261-267 [3290.1.10]; Leland, "The Russian gypsies," in Macmillan, v. 41, p. 43, 117 [7324.1.41]; "Zigeunerisches aus Moskau" mitg. v. A. Schleifer [2963.58]; Glaeser, "Zigeunerisches aus Sumy im gouvernement Charkov," also in Miklosich.

Roumania, etc.—Kogalniceanu, "Esquisse sur l'histoire, les mœurs et la langue des Cigains," Berlin, 1837 [Ordered], is important for its researches among the gypsies of Moldavia; Bogisic, "Die slavisierten Zigeuner in Montenegro," in "Das Ausland," 1874, pp. 401-406 [5290.50]. - Although attributed on the title-page to Samuel Warren, it is very doubtful whether these stories were written by the author of "Ten thousand a year." They are apparently reprints of two separate works, published at N.Y., 1852, in the title of one of which "The confessions of an attorney," there is added, "By Gustavus Sharp, Esq., of the late firm of Flint and Sharp," and to the other, "By William Warner," the publishers at that time regarding both to have been written by Samuel Warren. The story called in the edition of 1880, here catalogued, "The experiences of a barrister" is, in the earlier edition, entitled "The confessions of an attorney." Two chapters from an unknown source have been added.

The historical novels of this author are highly praised. The following illustrate the half of the thirty years' war: Die Pappenheimer; Der Page des Herzogs von Friedland; Ritterlicher Sinn; Der Ring; Die drei Wünsche; Der Findling. Franz von Sickingen, soldier and Protestant reformer, lived in the reigns of Maximilian I. and Charles V. At Marignano, Francis I. defeated the allied German, Italian, and Swiss armies, Sept. 13, 14, 1515. Missolonghi sustained a long siege in the war for Greek independence. The scene of Mutius Sforza is laid in the Kingdom of Naples during the reign of Joanna the second, 1414-1435.

United States Coast Survey Charts.

The Bulletin for July, 1871, contained a list of the Coast survey charts in the Library. The following, in addition, have been received as a gift from the Coast survey office, through J. E. Hilgard, the officer in charge. The charts of the Coast survey are divided into four classes: 1. Sailing charts, upon a scale of 1:1,200,000, five of which cover the Atlantic, and six the Pacific coast.—2. General charts of the coast upon scales of 1:400,000 and 1:200,000, embracing the Atlantic coast in sixteen charts, and the Pacific in twelve. These show the general outline of the coast.—3. Coast charts upon a scale of 1:80,000, showing every natural and permanent artificial feature.—4. Charts of harbors, etc. The first date after the title of each map is the date of issue, and the second shows that the aids to navigation have been corrected to that time. The size is given in inches. The numbers given with each map represent the number assigned in the Coast survey catalogue.

Massachusetts Election Sermons.

The lists appended to S. Deane's sermon in 1794, to D. Osgood's in 1809, to A. Bigelow's in 1836, to J. Pierce's in 1849, to A. H. Quint's in 1866, and to C. E. Grinnell's in 1871 (prepared by Henry H. Edes), give a record, so far as had been ascertained, of the preachers, beginning with 1634. There are still fifteen years for which the names of the preachers are unknown. John Norton's sermon in 1661 (printed in 1664) is probably the first delivered that was printed, John Higginson's in 1663 being the first printed. The lists above mentioned do not attempt any record of sermons actually printed, and it is with a view of eliciting information for such a record that the present list is made. The Boston Public Library has copies of all the sermons mentioned in the following list, except a few marked M. H. S., which are to be found in the library of the Massachusetts Historical Society, and one in that of the American Antiquarian Society. Besides these, there remain, subsequent to 1661, eleven sermons, for the years 1664, 65, 66, 69, 75, 78, 80, 81, 84, 86, 97, whose preachers are known, but of which there is no trustworthy record of publication. The shelf numbers of those sermons to be found in this library can be ascertained by consulting the Card Catalogue, under "Massachusetts — Election sermons." Many of the early and rare sermons are duplicated. The regular set on 4356.14 is complete after 1768, with the exception of the first sermon preached in 1775, and the second sermon preached in 1780. Another set, on 4355.90, is, with a few exceptions, complete from 1783 to 1873.

Assistance has been rendered in the preparation of this list by Mr. Moore, superintendent of the Lenox library, who has called attention to the fact that when, as it sometimes happened, there was a second assembly in the same political year, the legislators used to attend the regular Thursday lecture, and make that their election sermon, as in the case of the Thursday lectures of Rev. John Webb, 11th Feb., 1730-31, and Rev. Thomas Foxcroft, 23d November, 1727, which sermons might properly be attached to, if not included in, the series of Election sermons. Suggestions have also been received from Messrs. James F. Hunnewell, John Ward Dean, C. B. Tillinghast, and others.

1633. Thomas Shepard.

The manuscript of this sermon was discovered in 1870, by Mr. John W. Dean, and printed in the New England hist. and geneal. register for Oct., 1870 [pp. 361-66 in *2535.1.24].

1644. Richard Mather.

"It is ordered, the printer shall have leave to print the election sermon, wth Mr. Mathers consent."—Records of Massachusetts Bay, 29 May, 1644 [*4298.1]. It is not known that this sermon was printed.

1649. Thomas Cobbett.

The thanks of the House were voted, and the preacher was asked to have his sermon printed. See Records of Mass. Bay, May 3, 1649 [*4298.1]. No copy in print is known.

Mr. Moore suggests that the permission to print, and the request to print, intimate the probability that some of these earlier sermons were actually printed, which are not to be found at present. They also show that the printing was not paid for by the public.

Dr. Samuel A. Green points out in the N. E. hist. and geneal. register for Jan., 1871, p. 91, the existence of two editions of William Stoughton's sermon for 1668. Sibley, in his "Sketches of graduates of Harvard univ." (vol. 1, p. 206), gives collations. The Massachusetts Historical Society has a copy of each edition. The Public Library has two copies of the second edition.

1781-1809.

1810. Delivered by Elijah Parish.

On account of the extreme federalist views of this sermon, the House of representatives refused to request a copy for the press. It was accordingly printed by private subscription. There were two editions.

1811-74.

1875. Delivered by E. C. Bolles.

This sermon was not written out at the time of delivery, and upon the House of representatives asking a copy for the press the preacher was unable to accede to the request. Mr. Bolles has kindly offered to write out as much as he may remember, for the Library.

NEW CATALOGUES. — A new Catalogue of the books in foreign languages in the Lower Hall will be published in May.

At the same time there will be published a Supplement to the Catalogue of Works in the Lower Hall in the Arts and Sciences, containing the titles of books added since 1871. This department of the Library has been increased by the recent purchase of many elementary and practical works. The usefulness of the Catalogue will be increased by references to the latest and best works in the Bates Hall collection.

THE BARTON LIBRARY. — The Catalogue of the Shakespearean portion of the Barton Library is now finished, and is for sale at five dollars.

THE TICKNOR LIBRARY. — The Catalogue of this collection of Spanish and Portuguese books is for sale at five dollars.

The Library will be glad to receive copies of the Bates Hall Index and Supplement, also of Bulletins No. 2, 20, 28, 46, 54, 55 and 56, of which the supply is exhausted.

All departments are open every secular day, except the five legal holidays, — February 22, Fast Day, July 4, Thanksgiving and Christmas, — and such other days as the Trustees may direct.

The Bates Hall is open from nine o'clock, A.M., until six, P.M., from October to March, inclusive, and until seven o'clock during the rest of the year. The Central Reading Room for Periodicals is open from nine o'clock, A.M., until ten, P.M., and on Sundays from two to ten.

New Books as soon as received are entered on the Bulletin Boards of each Library. In the Bates Hall, before titles appear on the Board the new books are displayed (with the shelf-number attached) in a glass case at the desk. The lists in the Lower Hall and at the Branches show only the books added to those departments. The Dorchester list is posted also at the Lower Mills Delivery, the Jamaica Plain list at the Roslindale Delivery and at the West Roxbury Delivery. The Bulletins are for sale (excepting those out of print) at five cents each. Books with numbers below 2110 are in the Lower Hall; with 2110 and above, in the Bates Hall. Those with Bri., Chn., Dor., E. B., J. P., Rox., S. B., or S. E. prefixed to the number are respectively in the Brighton, Charlestown, Dorchester, East Boston, Jamaica Plain, Roxbury, South Boston, or South End Branch.

*This edition of Prince's Chronological History of New England is a reprint of the first volume, and of the only three parts ever published of the second. The Library has several copies of Vol. 1, in the edition of 1736, one of which has Jeremy Belknap's signature, and copies of the editions by Samuel G. Drake, published in 1826 and 1852. The second volume appeared in 1755, and the three parts are of exceeding rarity, the Public Library having only parts 1 and 2. The second volume was reprinted in the Collections of the Massachusetts historical society, second series, vol. 7 [2351.1.17]. The chronicle ends August 5, 1633.

 HUME, David, and SMOLLETT, Tobias G. History of England, illustrated. Prefixed the life of Hume, by himself; and extracts from the best authorities now extant. London: Cadell and Davies. 1812. 34 vol. 1173 portraits, 1257 plates, 239 maps, all inserted. F°. *G.310.1

The title common to all the volumes is made up for this extension of the two separate histories of Hume and Smollett. Hume's history ends with vol. 24, and Smollett's occupies vol. 25 to 34. The leaves have been separated and mounted in folio size. Portraits, plates, maps, books, and parts of books have been inserted. Among them are the following:—

1. Many plates cut from S. and N. Buck's "Antiquities, or venerable remains of castles, monasteries [etc.]" London, 1730-41. These plates may be of the second impression, of 1774.
2. Plates from François Anne David's "Histoire d'Angleterre, représentée en 111 figures accomp. d'un précis historique." Paris, 1784-1800. More numerous in the first volumes.
3. 37 plates, cut from J. Thane's "British autography."
4. In vol. 10 to 14 there are 37 portraits taken from John Chamberlaine's "Imitations of original drawings by Hans Holbein for the portraits of the court of Henry VIII." London, 1792-1800. The complete work consists of 72 portraits, engraved, with exception of four, by Bartolozzi. These appear to be of the second impression, i.e., printed on tinted (or Holbein) paper, of smaller size than those of the first impression, and mounted. See Bohn's Lowndes, vol. 2, p. 405.
5. A number of wood-cuts on India paper, which appear to be taken from "Chronicles of London bridge. By an antiquary [Richard Thomson]." London, 1827.
6. Many copper-plates representing famous battles, particularly at the time of the Duke of Marlborough, bearing the name of Cl. du Bosc, as engraver.
7. Numerous plates cut from Sir S. R. Meyrick's "Critical inquiry into ancient armour."
8. In vol. 11, opposite p. 35, is a copper-plate, by Albert Dürer, of Frederick the Wise, Elector of Saxony, bearing date 1524.
9. Mezzotints taken from Samuel Woodburn's "Portraits of characters illustrious in British history from Henry VIII to James II." London, 1810.

Besides these there are several of George Vertue's "Heads of the kings of England;" and mezzotints of some of Godfrey Kneller's paintings. Among the maps, etc., are found some of De Witt's publications, and charts taken from Greenville Collins's "Great Britain's coasting pilot."

In volume 1 are found besides other inserted matter 36 chronological maps, which may be taken from Lavoisne and Gros's "Genealogical, historical, and chronological atlas." London, 1807. A work with the half-title, "A description of the renowned Island of Britain," 180 pp., cut from some larger work. In vol. 3, "The conversion of the English-Saxons," 479-514 pp., "The laws of King Ina," 569-580 pp., "The war between the Britains and Romans," 6 pp. (cut from some work or works); Vol. I of John Bayley's "History and antiquities of the Tower of London," with exception of the title-page and preliminary leaves. In vol. 9, 38 maps of the shires of England, probably cut from R. Blome's "Britannia." London, 1673. In vol. 16, "La nouvelle Troye ou memorable histoire du siege d'Ostende. Recueillie des plus assurés memoires, par Henry Haestens." Leyde, Loys Elzevir, 1615. In vol. 17, "The fourth book of the theatre of the empire of Great Britain. By John Speed." London, 1676. Containing the "Kingdom of Ireland," pp. 135-146, with four maps, but lacking title-page to the fourth book. In vol. 23, "Brief description of the civil wars, and battails, in England, Wales, and Ireland," 8 pp. and map, cut from Speed's "Theatre of Great Britain," 1676. In vol. 26, "The general description of Wales," pp. 99-126, cut from Speed's "Theatre of Great Britain," 1676, with 11 maps, but lacking some pages. In vol. 34, "Twenty-three plates of the coins of the ancient British kings, engraved under direction of Dr. Stukeley, and published by R. Fleming." London: T. Snelling. n. p. "A view of the silver coin and coinage of England from the Norman conquest." [By T. Snelling.] London, 1762. "A view of the gold coin and coinage of England, from Henry III." [By T. Snelling.] London, 1763. "A view of the copper coin and coinage of England." By T. Snelling. [With Appendix.] London, 1766.

Russia and Nihilism.

In the Harvard College Library Bulletin for Oct., 1880, was published a preliminary list of books and magazine articles on Nihilism in Russia. The works noted below are in most cases additional to those cited there, and are such as are to be found at the Boston Public Library.

Histories and descriptive works on Russia. — Ramband's "History of Russia," L., 1877, in English [3062.18]; in French [3067.14], which is brought down to the year 1877, is pronounced a scholarly compilation, written in an easy style. A list of the Russian and foreign authorities consulted is appended to the second volume. Wallace's "Russia" [3062.12,18] is a reliable work, by one familiar with the interior affairs of Russia, although he has been criticised by a writer in the Edinburgh review as having confined his studies mainly to the peasantry. The article on Emancipation is said to be especially important, that subject having been the object of special study and observation. Schnitzler's "Secret history of the court and government of Russia," L., 1847 [5064.5; L. H. 925.4], is largely concerned with the revolt of 1825, of which he was an observer. "L'Empire des Tsars," Paris, 1856-69, by the same, is cited as an authority by Rambaud.

Among the many works which have appeared in the last few years upon the political and social condition of Russia, up to the present time, may be mentioned the following:—

Julius Eckardt's works, entitled "Modern Russia" [5066.9; 5062.1], including the reign of Alex. II; "Russia before and since the war, 1877, 78" [3062.19]; "Aus der Petersburger Gesellschaft" [3067.20], translated under the title "Distinguished persons in Russian society" [3068.4]. These are anti-Russian in tone, but show great familiarity with Russian contemporary history. According to the Harvard Bulletin, the author is severely criticised by Mme Olga Novikoff, a Russian lady of note, in "Fraser's magazine," March, 1880 [5196.1], who attacks especially his claim to writing as a Russian, and accuses him of writing the gossip of Russian society. Under the initials O. K., Mme Novikoff has written "Russia and England from 1876 to 1880," L., 1880 [3062.21], reviewed by Gladstone in the "Nineteenth Century," March, 1880; "Is Russia wrong?" L., 1878 [3067.16], and an article in "Fraser's" for Jan., 1881, entitled, "Emperor Alexander's reforms," ably defending the internal administration and foreign policy of Russia. The works of this author, it is said, are excluded from Russia by the government. Edwards' "The Russians at home and abroad," L., 1879 [3066.11], is largely a collection of articles previously published in magazines, and contains reliable information regarding various aspects of Russian politics and society. Wahl's "Land of the Czar" [3063.11] contains much statistical information. Christie's "Men and things Russian," Edinb., 1879 [3067.21], and Barry's "Ivan at home," L., 1872 [3063.50], are travellers' accounts of the country. E. C. Grenville Murray's "Russians of to-day" [3067.12] contains lively sketches by a newspaper correspondent. Leroy-Beaulieu's articles, published in the "Revue des deux mondes," at intervals since 1873, are able political studies. "Savage and civilized Russia," by W. R., London, 1877 [3062.14], studies the growth of Russia as a political power in Europe; it is hostile in its sentiments toward Russia. Schmiedler's "Das russische Reich unter Alex. II," Berlin, 1878 [3064.8], is a favorable view. Baron Von Moltke's "Letters from Russia" [3067.10], written in 1856, give the impressions of a keen observer. Morfill's "Russia," L., 1880 [3067.25], is a convenient handbook, in a measure sympathetic in its tone. Greene's "Army life in Russia," N.Y., 1880 [3067.22; 3067.24]; "The Russian army in its campaigns in 1877-78" [3080a.53,54] give the observations of an American officer in the Russo-Turkish war. Alice Durand's (Henri Gréville) novels, "Les Koumiassine" [2660.21]; "Sonia" [2660.42]; "L'expiation de Savéli" [2660.43], illustrate Russian life principally among the higher classes. See for their significance in this respect Ralston's article, "Henri Gréville's pictures of Russian life," in the "Nineteenth Century," v. 4, p. 408 [7265.5.4]. "Akrochka. Mœurs russes," Nice, 1878-79 [3069.23], by W. de Zybins; and "Les Russes peints par eux-mêmes," Würzburg, 1876 [3069.21], give views of their country, by Russians.

Respecting the Village communes, an anomalous democratic feature in Russian politics, see A. W. Dilke's "Local government and taxation in Russia," in Cobden club essays, 1875, pp. 309-336 [3564.64]; Kawelin's "Der bäuerliche Gemeindebesitz in Russland," Lpz., 1877 [3657.22]; two chapters on "Village communities in Russia," and "Economic results of the Russian Mir," with references to sources, in Laveleye's "Primitive property" [3563.60]; Leroy Beaulieu in "Rev. d. d. mondes," juillet, 1876; J. von Reussler's "Zur Gesch. u. Kritik d. bäuerlichen Gemeindebesitzes," Riga, 1876 [ordered]; also in Wallace's "Russia" [3062.12,13].

Russian literature.—The most recent available authorities in this Library are Courrière's "La littérature contemporaine en Russie" [3068.10]; Koenig's "Literarische Bilder aus Russland," Stuttgart, 1837 [3068.34]; Rambaud's "La Russie épique," Paris, 1876 [3065.27]; Wollner's "Untersuchungen über die Volksepik der Grossrussen," Lpz., 1879 [3062.22]; W. R. S. Ralston's "Russian folk tales" [3063.6]; "Songs of the Russian people" [3066.4]. The latest available Russian authority is Petrow's "Tableau de la littérature russe," Paris, 1872 [ordered]. It is pronounced less complete than Courrière. The author is professor of Russian literature in St. Petersburg. See also a chapter "La littérature sous Nicholas I," in "Les Russes peints par eux-mêmes" [3069.21]; and essays in Leger's "Études slaves," P., 1879 [3069.17].

The Revolt of 1825.—An authentic account by a participant is that of the Baron De Rosen, entitled "Russian conspirators in Siberia," L., 1872 [3069.15]. At the time of the revolt De Rosen was an officer in the Russian army, and although his participation was more passive than aggressive, he was sentenced to Siberia, where he remained until the year 1857. N. Turgenev, one of the conspicuous participants, gives an account in his "La Russie et les Russes," Bruxelles, 1867 [3069.4]. Alexander Herzen, perhaps the best known outside of Russia of any of the Russian agitators, has given a short account in a pamphlet entitled "La conspiration russe," Londres, 1858 [5069a.13]. Ivan Golovin's "Der russische Nihilismus" [3067.26] contains a chapter of reminiscences of the chief actors in the insurrection, under the caption "Die Dekabristen;" Schnitzler's "Secret history," cited above, contains an account by one who had special opportunities for studying the events immediately preceding and following the outbreak. See also "Russian conspiracies," by Carl Blind in "Contemporary review," v. 35, p. 422; 36, p. 120 [7321.3].

Nihilism.—For a correct idea of the development of Nihilistic doctrines, the works of the precursors of Nihilism and the political essays on Russian history since 1825 are important. Alexander Herzen's "Du développement des idées révolutionnaires en Russie," Londres, 1853 [ordered]; "Le monde russe et la révolution," Paris, 1853 [ordered]; "My exile," L., 1855 [5069.3], afford valuable information on the early stages of the agitation. Prince Dolgoroukof's "La vérité sur la Russie," Paris, 1861 [ordered]. Ivan Golovin's "Types et caractères russes," Paris, 1847; "La constitution russe," Paris, 1867 [5065.16]; "The nations of Russia and Turkey and their destiny," L., 1854 [3069.12]; "La résurrection de la Pologne et la régénération de la Russie," Paris, 1863 [5065.25]; N. Turgenev's "La Russie et les Russes," Bruxelles, 1847 [3069.4], represent the democratic works.

Perhaps no better source of information on the personal characteristics of the Nihilists of the present day is available than Ivan Turgenev's novels "Fathers and sons" [1445.18]; "Smoke" [498.22]; "Virgin soil" [3067.17; 62.37], and some of his short stories. Moritz Jokai's "Le tapis vert" [4660a.53] is a story of a secret order, known as "The green book," in the latter part of the reign of Alexander I. Prominent Russians of that time are introduced, including the poets Pushkin and Lyleïeff, and Arakheïeff, the Russian war minister under Alexander I. Lavigne's "Roman d'une nihiliste" [4666.76], translated under the title "A female nihilist" [4660a.52], is a realistic picture of Nihilistic methods. A work in which the most extreme Nihilistic doctrines are embodied is Tshernyshefsky's novel, "Chto Dylat?" [3067.23], translated into French under the title "Que faire?" and in German "Was ist zu thun?" Berlin, 1876. This work is said to be not only the encyclopædia, the reference book, but the codex of the practical application of Nihilistic ideas, in which the principles of extreme socialistic doctrines are personified, with exact directions to the realization of those principles. Cunliffe Owen analyzes this work in the "Nineteenth Century," Jan., 1880 [7265.5].

An account of the Nihilistic writers of Russia may be found in Courrière's "La littérature contemporaine en la Russie," Paris, 1875 [3068.10], and Petrow's "Tableau de la littérature russe," Paris, 1872 [ordered]. Ralston's article, "Russian revolutionary literature," in the Nineteenth century, v. 1, p. 397 [7265.5.1], is principally on the character of the revolutionary tracts, surreptitiously circulated in Russia.

The following works study the rise and progress of Nihilism: — Arnaudo's "Lenihilisme et les nihilistes russes" [5564.75], which is endorsed by Turgenev and Alexander Herzen, the younger; Frédéric's "La Russie et le nihilisme," Paris, 1880 [3068.30], and Lavigne's "Introd. à l'hist. du nihilisme russe," Paris, 1880 [5564.81]. In the last the subject is skillfully handled. It includes a collection of authoritative documents, including selections from Nihilistic writings, with a preliminary study by a Russian politician. These works are more or less in sympathy with the cause of the Nihilists, but do not indorse their extreme doctrines. Ivan Golovin's "Der russische Nihilismus" [3067.26] is a collection of personal reminiscences. Karlovitch's "Die Entwicklung des Nihilismus," Berlin, 1879 [5564.76], is a brief essay on the development of Nihilistic principles.

For various articles which have appeared in periodicals, consult the list in the Harvard College bulletin, Oct., 1880, which may be found in the Card Catalogue, under the heading Nihilism, and the index of current periodical literature, kept at the Bates Hall desk.

The "International review" for April, May, 1881, contains articles on "The last trial of the Russian nihilists," by a Russian lady, now residing in New York. These articles are mainly a synopsis of the confession of Rosenberg, the murderer of prince Krapotkin, who in his confession gave a circumstantial account of the Nihilistic organization, with the names of his fellow-conspirators. The June number will have a discussion of the Emperor's assassination, by a Russian. M. Kaufmann's article in the "Contemporary review" for Dec., 1880, entitled "Nihilism in Russia," is an interesting study of the natural and historical causes of Nihilism.

Thomas Carlyle.

Among sketches or criticisms during the earlier period of Carlyle's life, John Sterling's essay in his "Essays and tales" [4549.72] may first be mentioned. This first appeared in the "Westminster review" 1839 [*3146.1], and is called an able exposition of his teachings on their literary and æsthetic side. Mazzini, in his "Life and writings" [4797.2], vol. 4, has two articles written in 1843, one on the genius and tendency of his writings; the other on his "French revolution." Thoreau's short notice in the "Yankee in Canada," p. 211 [4605.19], is interesting as an early American opinion, as are also A. H. Everett's review of "Sartor Resartus," in the North American review, Oct., 1835 [*3123.1.41], and Emerson's account of his visit to Carlyle, at Dunscore, in his "English traits," p. 20 [2467.15]. R. H. Horne's "New spirit of the age," p. 333 [4579.24], praises his writings with discrimination; while Giles, in his "Lectures and essays," vol. 2, p. 290 [G.3925.14.2], and E. P. Whipple, speaking of "Carlyle as a politician" in his "Essays and reviews," vol. 2 [4506.60.2], both write in an admiring vein. Sketches are found in Smiles's "Brief biographies," p. 270 [539.18], and in Powell's "Living authors" [586.9]. Kingsley's "Alton Locke" [*2568.81; 2568.73] is a striking instance of the influence of Carlyle's early writings.

Elizur Wright attacks Carlyle in the Latter-day pamphlets " [*4543.57; 4496.2]; and Thomas McNicoll wrote a critical attack in the "Wesleyan methodist magazine," 1852, pp. 490, 696, 802, 999 [*7455.1.75.1.2], afterwards republished by Whitaker, and again in his "Essays on English literature," London, 1861 [395.27]. James Martineau has a chapter in his "Essays" [5563.8.1] on "Personal influence on our present theology: Newman, Coleridge, Carlyle." In S. Lucas's "Secularia" [5172.8], the chapter "The Hohenzollern stage of hero-worship" is a hostile criticism of "Frederick the Great." J. R. Lowell, in "My study windows" [4509.28; 4509.31], expresses cordial dislike to the same work; and H. H. Lancaster, in his "Essays and reviews," Edinb., 1876 [2552.18], concludes it to be more calculated to do mischief than anything Carlyle has written; W. R. Greg is somewhat milder in his criticisms on Kingsley and Carlyle in his "Literary and social judgments" [4565.15; 4565.50.1]. "An occasional discourse on Sauerteig by Smelfungus," in P. P. Alexander's "Mill and Carlyle" [5605.11], is a travesty on Carlyle's style; G. McCrie, in "The religion of our literature" [2573.59] gives an analysis of Carlyle's religious theories, only as found in his writings; other considerations of his religious views may be found in Martineau's "Essays" [5563.8.1], in J. M. Manning's "Half-truths" [5446.60; 2095.23], in the chapter "Panthelism in the form of hero-worship," and in Crozier's "Religion of the future," 1880 [5489.83], which, at some length, contrasts Carlyle with Emerson. E. P. Hood's "Thomas Carlyle," 1875 [2549a.59], and A. H. Guernsey's "Thomas Carlyle," 1879 [1543.30], are both compilations, with selections, anecdotes, etc., by admirers. See also E. Barrett's "Carlyle anthology," 1876 [2477.63], and T. Ballantyne's "Passages selected from the writings of Carlyle, with memoir," London, 1855 [885.12]. A rather cursory review of his literary work is in S. Davey's "Darwin, Carlyle, and Dickens" [2558.67]. J. C. Hotten gives a good but brief sketch, with two portraits, one of them Count D'Orsay's sketch, and a vignette of Carlyle's house in Chelsea, in the preface to "On the choice of books" [4579.3]. Sir William Hamilton and Carlyle are contrasted with Mill in D. Masson's "Recent British philosophy" [5607.69; 5609a.15; 7606.61].

The most important studies upon Carlyle are an essay by Taine, in his "History of English literature" [2473.51.4; 2473.52.2; 2473.50.2; 2473.55.2], first known in French as "L'idéalisme anglais" [4690.26], published in 1864; by John Morley, in his "Critical miscellanies" [2552.52.1]; and by Peter Bayne, in "Lessons from my masters" [2552.62; 1854.10]; the latter, in his "Christian life" [1086.12], attacks at some length the unevangelical spirit of Carlyle's writings. H. J. Nicoll's "Thomas Carlyle," Edinb., 1881 [2454.51], is, according to the preface, "a repository for a large amount of floating literature about Carlyle."

Personal anecdotes and interviews may be found in Emerson's "English traits" [2467.15]; in Margaret Fuller's "At home and abroad," p. 183 [654.8]; in "Potter's American monthly," Nov., 1876 [4513.51.6], an interesting visit by A. Merlin; in A. H. Guernsey's account of Carlyle's talks with Milburn, in "Harper's," v. 26, p. 221 [5220.12.26]; in Harriet Martineau's "Autobiography" [2543.57; 2540a.52.1].

An early portrait of Carlyle, when about 38 years old, can be found in Maclise's "Gallery," p. 100 [2240a.52]; also in "Fraser's," vol. 7, p. 106 [3187.1]; one of him, in his old age, engraved from Boehm's statue, praised by Ruskin, is in the "Art Journal," London, p. 148 [7260.2.1878], and in the "Art Journal," N.Y., p. 217 [*7400.50.4].

Reviews.—There are papers in "Fraser's" [3187.1], for Dec., 1858, and Dec., 1865. "Blackwood's" [3160.1], vol. 54, Vol. 67 has a review of "Latter-day pamphlets," terming them "about the silliest productions of the day;" and vol. 85 has an article on "Mirage philosophy," written by Sir E. B. Hamley, and reprinted, Edinb., 1881 [2559.69], introductory to a review of "Frederick the Great." See the "Foreign quarterly," for Sept., 1840 [3166.2]; "Edinburgh review," Oct., 1859

[3112.1]; "Westminster review," Jan., 1859 [3146.1]; "British quarterly," vol. 2 [3163.1]; and "Quarterly," vol. 66, p. 446 [3134.1], and vol. 132 [5368.1.132]. For a number of reviews, in the "North American review," see its index [B. H. Desk]; also the index of the "Christian examiner" [B. H. Desk], for reviews by N. L. Frothingham, Emerson, J. F. Clarke, and others. See "Harper's," vol. 1 and vol. 33 (paper by Alexander Smith) [5210.12]. "The Atlantic monthly," vol. 1 [5314.1], has an article by G. L. Phillips, and vol. 12 has D. A. Wasson's review of Carlyle's opinion on the civil war. There are essays in the "North British review," vol. 14 [5299.1.14]; Revue des deux mondes [3315.1], April, 1849, June, 1850, Sept., 1850, July, 1852.

Recent Articles.—A few late sketches have appeared since Carlyle's death in the "Gentleman's magazine," March, 1880 [7266.1]; in the "Cornhill magazine," March, 1881 [7323.1]; in "The Eclectic," April, 1881 [5236.2] (taken from the "Spectator"); in the "Penn monthly," March, 1881 [5254.50]; in the "Catholic world," April, 1881 [7472.1]; in "The Sunday at home," April, 1881, with portrait [7272.50]; in "Fraser's," April, 1881 [3187.1]; in "The Contemporary," April, 1881 [7321.3]; in "Good words," April, 1881, by R. H. Hutton, with portraits [831.1]; in "The Fortnightly," April, 1881, by J. C. Morison [5362.1]; in "Atlantic monthly," May, 1881, by H. James [5324.1]; in "Unitarian review," April, 1881, by J. W. Chadwick [7501.50.]; in "Illustrated London news," Feb. 19, 1881 (with two portraits, and view of his home); in "The Antiquary," March, 1881, p. 124, on Carlyle as an antiquary; in "Revue des deux mondes," 1er mars, 1881, by G. Valbert; in the "Cottage hearth," May, 1881, with two portraits; in "Macmillan's," April, 1881, by Mrs. Oliphant; in the "Westminster review," April, 1881, a review of his works, and of the "Reminiscences;" in "Harper's," May, 1881, by M. D. Conway; in "Scribner's," May, 1881, portrait, engr. by T. Cole, "Impressions of Carlyle in 1848," by R. W. Emerson, and his Literary work by G. Saintsbury.

William Blake.

The first edition of Gilchrist's "Life of Blake" [4065.30] was published in 1863; the new edition, mentioned on p. 314 of this Bulletin is enlarged by the addition of about forty letters of Blake to W. Hayley and others; by the insertion, at the end of the second volume, of James Smetham's "Essay on Blake," originally contributed to the "London quarterly review," Jan., 1869 (?); by new fac-similes, by the photo-intaglio process, of the "Illustrations of Job;" and by F. J. Shields's descriptive catalogue of Blake's illustrations to Young's "Night thoughts."

This Library has none of the original works of Blake. It has, however, the following reproductions:—

1. Works. Reproduced in fac-simile from original editions. [London.] 1876. F° [*6070.56], containing "Songs of innocence," 1789; "Songs of experience," 1794; "Book of Thel," 1789; "Vision of the daughters of Albion," 1793; "America: a prophecy," 1793; "Europe: a prophecy," 1794; "The first book of Urizen," 1794; "The song of Los," 1794.
2. Jerusalem. The emanation of the giant Albion. Fac-simile. 1804 [Reprint, London, 1877]. (100) ff. 4° [*6070.55]. Reproduced in black and white by photo-lithography.
3. Marriage of heaven and hell. [London: Hotten. 1868.] 27 ff. 4° [*4601.4]. C. E. Norton reviews this and Shepherd's edition of Blake's poems in the "North American review," April, 1869 [3153.1.108]. Gilchrist call this "the most daring in conception and gorgeous in illustration of all Blake's works."
4. W. B. Scott's "Etchings from Blake's works." London, 1878 [1877]. 4° [C.A.1.7]; reviewed in the "Spectator," 1877, p. 1660 [5203.1].
5. Illustrations of the Book of Job. C. E. Norton has published an edition of heliotype reproductions, now out of print. Boston: J. R. Osgood, 1875. Both editions of Gilchrist contain reproductions.
6. Poetical sketches. Now first reprinted from the edition of 1783. Edited by R. H. Shepherd. London, 1868. Sm. 8° [4559a.1]. Also, edited by D. G. Rossetti, with some alterations and omissions, in Gilchrist, vol. 2.
7. Songs of innocence and of experience. Edited by R. H. Shepherd. London, 1868. Sm. 8° [6608.11]. Same, edited and slightly altered, by D. G. Rossetti, in Gilchrist, in which are fac-similes of fourteen original plates. Also, in "Works." Reproduced, 1876 [*6070.56].
8. Poems. Comprising Songs of innocence, and of experience, with Poetical sketches. [Ed. by R. H. Shepherd.] London, 1874. Sm. 8° [2569a.77].
9. Poetical works. Edited, with prefatory memoir, by W. M. Rossetti. Boston, 1875. Portr. 16° [4567.72]. The memoir is called in Gilchrist, "a richly condensed essay." T. S. Perry reviews this edition and also Norton's edition of the "Illustrations of Job," in the "Atlantic monthly," April, 1875 [5324.1.35]. Thomas H. Ward's "English poets," vol. 3 [4564.70.3; 4564.69.3] contains a few selections, and a brief sketch by J. Comyns Carr.

Criticisms and Studies: A. C. Swinburne's "William Blake," with illustrations from Blake's designs in fac-simile. London, 1868. 8° [4065.32]; G. W. Thornbury's "British artists from Hogarth to Turner," vol. 2, p. 26 [4068.5.2]; Sidney Colvin, in an article on "Children in Italian and English design," devotes a paper to Blake, with two plates, in the "Portfolio," 1871, p. 138 [C.C.1.1, 1871]; J. Comyns Carr has a chapter in his "Essays on art" (4078.19); Henry Crabb Robinson's "Diary" [4541.2; 4548.56], particularly in vol. 2, gives many anecdotes of Blake; there is a short sketch in Timbs's "English eccentrics" [4556.4.2]; H. E. Scudder reviews Gilchrist in "North American review," Oct., 1864 [No. 1 in 6541.56], and devotes an article to Blake in "Scribner's," June, 1880 [7392.2]; giving four illus. never before reproduced. W. F. Rae reviews Gilchrist in the "Fine arts quarterly," vol. 3, p. 56-79 [8072.1.3], reproducing a few plates. The "Contemporary review," Oct., 1876, and Jan., 1877 [7321.3.28, 29], has two articles by H. G. Hewlett, on "Imperfect genius: W. Blake." In the "Quarterly review," vol. 117 [5368.1.117], is a review of Gilchrist, with a few illustrations. James Thomson, under the signature B. V., contributed some papers on Blake's poetry and mysticism to the National reformer, for 1866; the "Academy," March 19, 1881, and the "Atlantic monthly," May, 1881, review the latest edition of Gilchrist.

The Library contains a few specimens of Blake as an engraver and designer. In J. Ritson's "English songs," London, 1783 [G. 3714.1], are plates designed by Stothard, seven of which were engraved by Blake. Lavater's "Physiognomy," vol. 1, 1789 [*3600.1.1] contains his engraving of Rubens's "Democritus," p. 159, and an engraving of a hand holding a taper, p. 206. In Darwin's "Botanic garden," 1791 [*3851.9], is a plate, "The fertilization of Egypt," designed by Fuseli, engraved by Blake. Malkin, in his "Father's memoirs of his child," London, 1808 [4541.7], devotes a number of pages to Blake, who furnished the design for part of the frontispiece. Blake engraved the plates of Flaxman's "Compositions from Hesiod," London, 1817 [*4990a.10]. J. J. Mora's "Meditaciones poéticas," Londres, 1820, engr. t. p. [D.170.8], contains a portrait of Blake, from painting by Phillips, with twelve plates, first used by Blake in illustrating Blair's "Grave," 1808. These plates were afterwards used in an American edition of Tupper's "Proverbial philosophy."

The Theatre of the Greeks.

Comparatively few books appear to have been written in English concerning the Greek drama in general, although many editions of the dramatists have essays on the subject by the editors. One of the best known works is Donaldson's "Theatre of the Greeks" [4950a.24; 2952.1]. Darley's "Treatise on the Grecian drama" [2175.2] devotes much space to the metre and versification of the dramatic poetry. An interesting "Discourse on the Greek theatre" is to be found in Mrs. Lennox's translation of Father Brumoy's "Théâtre des Grecs" [4951.1]. Other works in this Library are Major's "Guide to the reading of the Greek tragedians" [2985.23]; Walford's "Handbook of the Greek drama," London, 1856 [ordered]; also Grote, in his "History of Greece," v. 8 [3072.1]. There are chapters on the Greek drama and dramatists in Felton's "Greece, ancient and modern" [5073.1]. See also the beginning of Sir Walter Scott's "Essay on the drama," first published in the supplement to the "Encyclopædia Britannica," 1819 [2577.5.6]. The Encyclopædia Britannica, v. 7, p. 403, under the heading "Drama," has a comprehensive article on this subject, which is also discussed in Smith's "Dictionary of Greek and Roman antiquities" and in other similar works. Stuart and Revett's "Antiquities of Athens," Supplement, London, 1830 [3070.2], contains a chapter on the form, arrangement, and construction of the Greek theatre, with plates in folio size. Mahaffy, in his "Social life in Greece" [2969.56; 2969.60], p. 182-206, discusses Sophocles, Æschylus, and Euripides, and endeavors to prove the inferiority of Sophocles, while Symonds takes the opposite view. Mahaffy also treats of dramatic literature in his "History of classical Greek literature," v. 1 [2967.59; 2967.58]. A considerable space is devoted to the Greek tragic poets in J. A. Symonds's "Studies of the Greek poets," 2d series, chap. 6-9 [2967.52]. J. Talboys Wheeler, in his "Life and travels of Herodotus," v. 2, 28-78 [4952.15.2], attempts to reproduce an ancient dramatic spectacle. There are papers in various periodicals, among which may be mentioned "Blackwood's magazine," vol. 30, 46, 47; the "Edinburgh review," vol. 43, 47; the "North American review," vol. 39, p. 330, and (by C. C. Felton) v. 44, p. 485, v. 76, p. 172, and the "Bibliotheca Sacra," vols. 6, 20, 30.

French.—Among the works in French on this subject are Brumoy's Discours, in his "Théâtre des Grecs" [2965.3]; Chaignet: "La tragédie grecque" [2969.4]; Patin: "Études sur les tragiques grecs," 4 v. [2979a.50]; Constans: "La légende d'Œdipe étudie," recently published [3006.5]; the Comte de Saint-Victor: "Les deux masques" [4673.50]; and articles in the "Revue des deux mondes"; also a paper by Ouvaroff in the Mémoires of the Académie des sciences of St. Petersburg, vol. 10.

German.—Among German works in the Library are Wagner: "Die griechische Tragödie" [2960.13], a short but interesting work; Schlegel, in his "Dramatische Kunst und Litteratur" [4219.2; 2197.19; English edition, 2873.64]; Nitzsch: "Die äschylische Trilogie," in his "Sagenpoesie" [ordered]; Welcker: "Die griechische Tragödie" [ordered]; Welcker: "Die äschylische Trilogie" [2978.3]; Gruppe: "Ariadne. Die tragische Kunst der Griechen" [2952.5]; Bode: "Geschichte der hellenischen Dichtkunst" [2952.6]; and C. O. Müller: "Geschichte der griechischen Litteratur" [B.163.4; English edition, 3074.4]. The last two treat of dramatic poetry. Becker's "Charicles" [4960.27; English edition 957.1] has a chapter on theatre going. Falke's "Hellas and Rom," recently published [2960.61], contains an illustration of a play in course of representation at the Theatre of Dionysos at Athens. Other works are by G. C. W. Schneider: "Das attische Theaterwesen" [ordered]; Genelli: "Das Theater zu Athen" [2952.17]; C. L. Stieglitz: "Archäologie der Baukunst der Griechen und Römer" [4096.8]; Wieseler: "Theatergebäude und Denkmäler des Bühnenwesens bei den Griechen" [ordered]; Schönborn: "Die Skene der Hellenen" [ordered]. In Ersch and Gruber's "Allgemeine Encyclopädie," article Griechenland, p. 159, is to be found an article on the subject, with numerous notes and authorities, by Dr. Wieseler. Klein devotes two volumes in his "Geschichte des Drama's" to the Greek and Roman drama [4874.4, vol. 1, 2].

Italian.—In Italian are Nicolini: "Discorso sulla tragedia greca," in his "Opere," vol. 1 [4776.11]; and Ferrara: "Storia e descrizione de' principi teatri antichi e moderni," Milano, 1830 [ordered].

In this list only modern works are mentioned. References are made in these works to the classical authorities.

Map of Old Boston.

The Trustees of the Public Library have recently published a copy of George Lamb's Map of Old Boston, constructed from the description of estates as found in the Book of Possessions, dated about 1645, for which a special appropriation was made by the City Council. The size of the map is nine feet four by five feet four, and is printed in nine parts, with a title-page and key, each part being two feet seven inches by one foot nine and a half inches.

Theodore Parker.

The will of the late Lydia D. Parker, widow of Theodore Parker, contains the following, among other bequests: "To the City of Boston I give all my books which I do not otherwise dispose of by memorandum herein inclosed, that they may be deposited for use in the Public Library of Boston, with the other books which my late husband bequeathed to said library, upon the conditions affixed to his bequest. The study desk and table is also to be deposited at my death in the Public Library; also the marble bust of my late husband by Story; and I do desire the same to be placed near the books bequeathed by him to the said library; also the crayon portrait of my late husband by Cheney; also the one of myself."

Roxbury Branch.—Bequest to the Fellowes Athenæum.

By the will of the late Mrs. Hannah E. Bartlett, the library of her husband, the late Dr. Henry Bartlett, of Roxbury, has been bequeathed to the Fellowes Athenæum, of which institution he was one of the original Trustees. This collection numbers nearly one thousand volumes, besides many pamphlets.

NEW CATALOGUES. — Two new catalogues have recently been published by the Library. One contains a list of books in the Arts and Sciences added to the Lower Hall of the Central Library between the years 1871 and 1881, with references to the best works in the same classes in the Bates Hall. This department of the Library has been largely increased recently, and it is thought that this catalogue will prove a useful guide, especially to artisans and mechanics, and to the young who are interested in science and the study of nature. The other is an Author

Catalogue of the books in Foreign Languages in the Lower Hall, with selections from the Bates Hall collection.

THE BARTON LIBRARY. — The Catalogue of the Shakespearean portion of the Barton Library is for sale at five dollars.

THE TICKNOR LIBRARY. — The Catalogue of this collection of Spanish and Portuguese books is for sale at five dollars.

The Twenty-ninth Annual Report of the Library is in the hands of the printer.

Number of Volumes and Hours.

All departments are open every secular day, except the six legal holidays, — February 22, Fast Day, Memorial Day, July 4, Thanksgiving and Christmas, — and such other days as the Trustees may direct.

The Bates Hall is open from nine o'clock, A.M., until six, P.M., from October to March, inclusive, and until seven o'clock during the rest of the year. The Lower Hall of the Central Library is open from half-past eight o'clock, A.M., to nine o'clock, P.M. From July 1 to August 30, inclusive, the time of closing is one hour earlier. The Central Reading Room for Periodicals is open from nine o'clock, A.M., until ten, P.M., and on Sundays from two to ten. From July 1 to August 30, inclusive, the time of closing is one hour earlier. During these two months the Branch Libraries close one hour earlier than the time mentioned in the following table.

CATALOGUES.

Bulletins.

New Books as soon as received are entered on the Bulletin Boards of each Library. In the Bates Hall, before titles appear on the Board the new books are displayed (with the shelf-number attached) in a glass case at the desk. The lists in the Lower Hall and at the Branches show only the books added to those departments. The Dorchester list is posted also at the Lower Mills Delivery, the Jamaica Plain list at the Roslindale Delivery and at the West Roxbury Delivery. The Bulletins are for sale (excepting those out of print) at five cents each. Books with numbers below 2110 are in the Lower Hall; with 2110 and above, in the Bates Hall. Those with Brl., Chn., Dor., E. B., J. P., Rox., S. B., or S. E. prefixed to the number are respectively in the Brighton, Charlestown, Dorchester, East Boston, Jamaica Plain, Roxbury, South Boston, or South End Branch.

ARBER, Edward. The English scholar's library of old and modern works.

According to the prospectus, it is intended, among other works of early English literature, to reproduce in this series Puritan controversial tracts, and a large number of forbidden or "obnoxious" books, comprising those "burnt by the Romish hierarchy under Henry VIII; Brownist, Puritan tracts; Free-speech books, obnoxious to the ministers of the Saints; 'Divine right' sermons, and other works burnt by order of Parliament, etc.

In this series are to be found the following:—

Arber, E., editor. An introductory sketch to the Martin Marprelate controversy. 1558-90. L., 1879. Sm. 8^o . . . *6606.16

Some of the tracts published in this controversy between the Puritans and the clergy of the established church were reprinted by John Petherham, under the title "Puritan discipline tracts" [3526.11]. It is the intention of the editor to reproduce all the tracts issued in this controversy, many of which, having been printed secretly at John Penry's wandering press, are now extremely rare.

Decker, Thomas. The seven deadly sins of London. October, 1606. L., 1879. Sm. 8^o . . . 6606.15

Fish, Simon, d. 1531. A supplication for the beggars. [Spring of 1529.] L., 1878. Sm. 8^o . . . *6606.12

This attack on the clergy was replied to by Sir Thomas More in a work entitled "The supplication of soules," etc. This tract has been reprinted in Fox's "Book of Martyrs," and in the extra series of the Early English text society publications [497.21]. The only copy of the original edition now known is in the British Museum.

Greene, Robert. Menaphon. Camila's alarm to slumbering Euphues in his melancholy cell at Silixedra, etc. [1589.] L., 1880. Sm. 8^o . . . *6606.20

Includes a chronological list of the works of Greene, Gabriel Harvey, and Thomas Nash, 1580-1600. This reprint includes Nash's Prefatory epistle, which contains supposed allusions to Shakespeare, and a "positive allusion to a tragical character called Hamlet." The date of the publication of the Preface has been the subject of discussion.

Knox, John. The first blast of the trumpet against the monstrous regiment of women. 1558. L., 1878. Sm. 8^o . . . *6606.10

Denies the right of government to women, and denounces particularly Queen Mary of England.

Martin Marprelate, pseud. The epistle [to the terrible priests of the Confocation house. 1583.] L., 1880. Sm. 8^o . . . *6606.19

An answer to Dr. John Bridges' "Defence of the government established in the Church of England," embodying a defence of the Puritans, and a counter attack on the clergy of the time. The editor, in his "Introductory sketch to the Martin Marprelate controversy" [6606.16], gives reasons for considering this the work of John Penry. The copy of Petherham's reprint of this tract in the Boston Public Library is numbered 3526.11.1.

Return, The, from Parnassus or the scourge of simony. Publicly acted by the students of Saint John's college in Cambridge. 1606. L., 1879. Sm. 8^o . . . *6606.14

There is a copy of the original edition, published in 1606 in the Barton collection, G. 4075.13. The editor concludes from internal evidence that this anonymous play, in which contemporary authors (including Shakespeare) are criticised, was composed and performed in 1602, notwithstanding it was not published until 1606.

Reynard the Fox. The history of Reynard the fox, translated and printed by William Caxton. June 1481. L., 1878. Sm. 8^o . . . *6606.9

There is a reprint of Caxton's edition in the Percy Society publications, 2357.14, with an "Introductory sketch of the literary history of the romance," by W. J. Thoms.

Robinson, Clement, and others. A handful of pleasant delights; containing sundry new sonnets, etc. 1584. L., 1878. Sm. 8^o . . . *6606.11

An exact reprint of the unique, imperfect copy in the British museum, was published by the Spenser society under the editorship of James Crossley, in 1871, 6006.11. A fragment of a leaf of another edition was found among the Bagford ballads in the British museum, and published in the Ballad society publications, in 1876. The title that is known regarding Robinson and his associates, Thomas Richardson, Peter Picks, J. Tomson, and George Manning, is recorded in Parks' Heliconia, v. 2, *2591.13.

Udall, John. A demonstration of the truth of that discipline, which Christ has prescribed for the government of his church. [1588.] L., 1880. Sm. 8^o . . . *6606.17

— The state of the Church of England in a conference between Diotrephes a bishop, Tertullus a papist, Demetrius a usurer, Pandochus an innkeeper, and Paul a preacher. [April 1588.] [Anon.] L., 1879. Sm. 8^o . . . *6606.13

These two tracts by Udall were surreptitiously printed by Robert Waldegrave, the Puritan printer, at East Molesey, near Hampton Court. The publication of these works caused the ruin of the printer, and was mainly the cause of Udall's imprisonment. An account of Udall's examination before an ecclesiastical commission is given in the Introductory sketch to the Martin Marprelate controversy, 6606.16.

- ARBER, Edward, ed., continued.
Virgilius Maro, Publius. Translation of the first four books of the Æneis, [by] Richard Stanhurst, with other poetical devices thereto annexed. 1582. L., 1880. Sm. 8°. *6606.18
This translation was first published at Leyden in 1582. The text of the Leyden edition is for the first time reproduced in its integrity. The work is important as being one of the earliest efforts in English hexameters, and is curious for its innovations in orthography.

- EBERS, Georg M. The emperor. A romance. From the German . . . 51.18
- The author states that in "Uarda" he has given a picture of the Pharaonic times; in "An Egyptian princess" of the subjection of Egypt to the new empire of the Persians. "The sisters" is a story of the Hellenic period under the Lagides. The later period of the early monastic move is dealt with in "Homo sum." The back ground of "The emperor" — the last of which the scene will be laid in Egypt — is the Roman dominion under Hadrian, and the early growth of Christianity.

SOUTH END BRANCH LIBRARY.—Since the publication of the last Bulletin this Branch Library has been moved into more convenient and attractive rooms in the English High school building on Montgomery street. The entire Library has been re-arranged and re-numbered, and a manuscript catalogue has been prepared for the use of readers. A card catalogue has also been prepared, which will be used in printing a catalogue during the present library year.

DORCHESTER BRANCH LIBRARY.—A new Catalogue of this Branch of the Public Library has been finished, and will be put to press the first of November.

ANNUAL REPORT.—The Twenty-ninth Annual Report of the Library was published in August. Copies can be obtained on application at the Central Library or Branches.

This number completes the Fourth Volume of the Bulletin. A title-page and index have been printed, which may be obtained on application to the Library.

Number of Volumes and Hours.

All departments are open every secular day, except the six legal holidays, — February 22, Fast Day, Memorial Day, July 4, Thanksgiving and Christmas, — and such other days as the Trustees may direct.

The Bates Hall is open from nine o'clock, A.M., until six, P.M., from October to March, inclusive, and until seven o'clock during the rest of the year. The Lower Hall of the Central Library is open from half-past eight o'clock, A.M., to nine o'clock, P.M. From July 1 to August 30, inclusive, the time of closing is one hour earlier. The Central Reading Room for Periodicals is open from nine o'clock, A.M., until ten, P.M., and on Sundays from two to ten. From July 1 to August 30, inclusive, the time of closing is one hour earlier. During these two months the Branch Libraries close one hour earlier than the time mentioned in the following table.

CATALOGUES.

Bulletins.

New Books as soon as received are entered on the Bulletin Boards of each Library. In the Bates Hall, before titles appear on the Board the new books are displayed (with the shelf-number attached) in a glass case at the desk. The lists in the Lower Hall and at the Branches show only the books added to those departments. The Dorchester list is posted also at the Lower Mills Delivery, the Jamaica Plain list at the Roslindale Delivery and at the West Roxbury Delivery. The Bulletins are for sale (excepting those out of print) at five cents each. Books with numbers below 2110 are in the Lower Hall; with 2110 and above, in the Bates Hall. Those with Bri., Chn., Dor., E. B., J. P., Rox., S. B., or S. E. prefixed to the number are respectively in the Brighton, Charlestown, Dorchester, East Boston, Jamaica Plain, Roxbury, South Boston, or South End Branch.

The "Magazine of American history" for Sept., 1881, prints a "Journal kept by a field officer," which was first published in the "American monthly museum," v. 1, p. 534 [3203.4.1]; the same magazine for Oct., 1881, contains the following: "The campaign of the allies—the surrender of Cornwallis," by J. H. Patton, illustrated with a map of Yorktown from the Faden and Renault maps of 1781, by L. V. Caziare; "Disposition of the allied armies," compiled by A. B. Gardner; "French officers at the siege," by J. A. Stevens; "The Wythe house, Washington's head-quarters," by C. W. Coleman, Jr.; Diary of a French officer, including De Ménonville's Journal of the siege; and an account of the naval campaign of De Grasse: also the Proceedings of Congress, 1781, and 1880-81, and the acts of legislatures in regard to the Centennial celebration, with a plan of Yorktown, etc. Johnston says that the Washington orderly books are to be printed in the "Pennsylvania magazine of history." The "North American review" for Oct., 1881, contains an article by S. H. Gay on Cornwallis's movements before his occupation of Yorktown. J. A. Stevens has published a handbook of the centennial celebration.

Some of the volumes are of the second edition. Kruenitz's work extended from vol. 1-72. F. J. Floerke, whose name is given in the titles of these volumes as Floerken, edited vol. 73-77. He was then succeeded by H. G. Floerke, who edited vol. 78-123. Vol. 124-188 were edited by J. W. D. Korth; the latter continued editor till vol. 225, assisted by C. O. Hoffmann, who completed the work. Ludwig Kossarski assisted in vol. 197-205, 221, 222. There are other changes in the title besides those mentioned.

This map is the result of an attempt to fix approximately, from the descriptions as given in the Book of possessions, verified by later transfers and deeds on record, the location and mutual boundaries of the various parcels of real estate into which the town of Boston was divided about 1645. It is based upon Bonner's map of 1722, but does not claim to reproduce the shore line of the peninsula in 1645, still less the exact form and dimensions of the several estates, as the descriptions do not give complete courses and distances. An index to the map and to the Book of possessions is affixed.

Renaissance.

Part IV. — Biography.

It has been the aim to include in this section such biographical works as illustrate the distinguishing features of the Renaissance. The biographical works cited by Burckhardt are all noted.

- ACCIAJUOLI, Niccolò, grand seneschal of Naples, 1310-1366. See Palmieri, M.
- ACCIAJUOLI, V. Vita di Piero di G. Capponi, illustrata, con note e documenti, per cura di G. Alazzi. (In Archiv. stor. Ital. T. 4, pt. 2, pp. 1-71.) *5245.2.4
- Capponi took a prominent part in the government of Florence, especially after the downfall of Piero de' Medici, and during the French occupation under Charles VIII.
- ALBERTI, L. B., 1404-1484. Vita. (In Muratori. Rerum Ital. script. V. 25.) *2720.1.25
- This anonymous work is supposed to be an autobiography. An Italian translation is contained in his works [2706.1]. There is a sketch of Alberti in an article on Rhimini, in Symonds' "Sketches" [2760.39]; also in his work on the "Fine arts of the renaissance" [2722.51.3].
- ALEARDO, F. Oratio in laudem F. Sfortie. 1449. (In Muratori. Rerum Ital. script. V. 25.) . . . *2720.1.25
- ALFONSO I, King of Naples, 1385-1454. See Fazio, B.; — Panormita, A.; — Pius II.
- AMORETTI, C. Memorie storiche su la vita, gli studi e le opere di L. da Vinci. (In Vinci, L. da. Trattato della pittura, pp. 7-207. Milano, 1804.) . . . *4802.2
- Originally published at Milan in 1784. The author made use of many inedited documents.
- ARETINO, Pietro, Italian writer, 1492-1556. See Mazzuchelli, G.
- BAGLIONI, Malatesta. See Vermiglioli, G. B.
- BAIN, G. Ueber das Leben und die Werke des G. P. da Palestrina. Lpz., 1834. 8°. 4045.5
- See also Ambros: "Gesch. der Musik im Zeitalter der Renaissance" [4045.13.3].
- BALDELLI, G. B., conte. Del Petrarca e delle sue opere libri quattro. Ed. 2a. Poligrafia Fiesolana, 1837. 2 v. in 1. 8°. 2803.5
- Elogio di Niccolò Machiavelli. Londra, 1794. 8°. . . . 2803.7
- Vita di Giovanni Boccacci. Firenze, 1806. Portr. 8°. 2772.17

- BALDINUCCI, F. Vita di F. di Ser Brunellesco da F. Baldinucci, con altra più antica inedita di anonimo contemporaneo scrittore. Precede una memoria intorno al risorgimento delle belle arti in Toscana e ai restauratori delle medesime dell'ed. D. Moreni. Firenze, 1812. 8°. . . . 2748.16
- See also, in Symonds' "Fine arts" [2722.51], and an account, in Norton's "Historical studies of church building" [4006.55], of his connection with the construction of the dome of the church of Santa Maria del Fiore, which is considered the first decided departure from the Middle-Age architecture.
- BARUFFALDI, G. Vite de' pittori e scultori ferraresi. Con annotazioni. Ferrara, 1844. 2 v. Portrs. 8°. 4078.4
- BAZZI, Giovannantonio, called Il Sodoma. See Jansen, A.
- BEMBO, P., 1470-1547. De Gvido Vbaldo Feretrio deque Elisabetha Gonzagia Urbini ducibus liber. [Colophon: Venetiis, 1530.] Sm. 4°. No. 2 in *4772.6
- This is also contained in various collections of Bembo's works. Guidobaldo succeeded his father the great Federigo da Urbino, as duke, in 1482. The scene of Castiglione's "Cortegiano" is partly laid in the court at Urbino. For an interesting account of this prince, his court, and the patronage which he gave to letters, see Dennistoun's "Memoirs," v. 2, pp. 279 et seq. [2744.27].

- Burckhardt says that, in modern biography, "the first great original effort is the life of Dante by Boccaccio. Lightly and rhetorically written, and full, as it is, of arbitrary fancies, this work, nevertheless, gives us a lively sense of the extraordinary features in Dante's nature."

- Contains 435 letters to various persons, written from 1498 to 1535. They include all that had previously been published, with those preserved in the Buonarroti archives and the British museum, also some belonging to private persons. Letters written to Michael Angelo remain still inedited in the Buonarroti archives. Gotti, in his "Vita di Michelangelo Buonarroti" [4074.73], embodies the biographical material contained in the inedited letters (with those published by Milanesi). Wilson, whose "Life and works of M. B." [4074.68] is mainly a translation of Gotti, published an index to the inedited letters in the Academy, April 20, 1878 [7300.2]. For a note upon Michael Angelo, see Bulletin, no. 54, p. 218.

- CROWE, J. A., and CAVALCASELLE, G. B. Titian: his life and times. L., 1877. 2 v. Illus. Portr. 8^o 4076.17
- This is considered a most scholarly and thorough work. Heath's "Life" [4030.64], in English, in the series of "Illus. biogs. of artists," is a popular work, indebted mainly to Crowe and Cavalcaselle; also to Gilbert [4761.5]. Sweetser's biography is a handy compilation [4069.49]. Gilbert's "Cadore, or Titian's country" [4761.5], is valuable for its interpretation of the spirit of Titian's landscapes.
- Among contemporary notices of Titian are the following:—
- Dolce's "Dialogo della pittura," which "contains notices of Titian, of whom Dolce was a familiar," and Vasari's "Vite di pittori," etc. Borghini's "Riposo" [4089.15], and Ridolfi's "Le maraviglie dell' arte" [4087.9], are later Italian accounts.
- Tieozzi, in writing his "Vite del pittori Vecelli di Cadore" [4087.5], had the use of mss. collected by Dr. Jacobi. He made such a poor use of his material that it occasioned the satirical work entitled "Imitazione pittorica," by A. Maier [4064.1].
- The works of Titian may be studied through the outline-illustrations in Kugler's "Italian schools of painting" [4079.75; 8066.10]; in Landon's "Vie des peintres" [8061.8]; by engravings in Blanc's "École vénitienne" [8080.5]; and by hylotypes in "Titian gallery" [C.270.13]. The landscapes can be best studied in Gilbert's "Cadore" [4761.5].
